Life at Fairmont West is a thing of beauty—
to Jan Schuerholz, Jim Lynn, Paul Gruner, Judy Blome, Jim Mullen, Martha Apple, Gloria Morningstar, Dave Maltby, Beth Nolan, Jim Twohig, Marc Shoemaker, Nancy Balis, Jaine Williams,
Bob Viets while on outing at Hills and Dales.

Years of trials and failures, successes and experiences, pioneer the making of a schoolyear such as that of 1965-66. Recalling past ventures and accomplishments, students reach for opportunities to make their mark upon the annals of school history. With pride and appreciation, the sophomore, junior, and senior classes perpetuate the distinction that is synonymous with the name of Fairmont West. For them, honor is not gauged by victories or by awards; it is revealed in the lives of the students themselves and the ways in which they live with and for their school. Finding the term "yearbook" to be incomplete, the 1966 Dragon is designed not to be the "book of a year," but the "book of one year resulting from the growth and advancements of many." To relate the desires and goals, the progress and achievements of the Westonians of '66—this is the purpose of the Dragon. Its pages burst with the newest contributions to the reputation of Fairmont West.

Linda Lennon — West's lovely queen

Attentive audience anxiously awaits announcement of '65 Homecoming queen.

Despite dismal weather, West's Homecoming festivities are again an outstanding success. Alumni gather to relive memories of one of the highlights of the football season.

Excitement prevails over the crowd as Bob Viets, master of ceremonies, crowns Linda Lennon the 1965 Homecoming Queen.

Victory over Wayne brings added enjoyment. Climaxing evening entertainment is the student council dance which everyone agrees is a wonderful culmination to the night's activities.

Escort Woody Kiefaber assists lovely queen candidate, Janet King, to her seat.

Homecoming activities accent 1965 royalty

Queen Linda Lennon and her court Barbara Knipp, Judy Stautzenbach, Janet King, Pam Little, and Sharon Moore reflect royal smiles as they reign over annual Homecoming festivities.

Enthusiasm, excellence, and devotion mark

RHYTHMETTE OFFICERS—Standing: Barbara Knipp, Cadet Captain; Cathy Jo French, 1st Lieutenant. Seated: Mary Ann Baker, 2nd Lieutenant; Sue Maeder, Warrant Officer.

Smiling faces, high strutting, and 110% spirit identify the forty-three members of Fairmont West Rhythmette Corps. Consisting of nine sophomores, twenty juniors, and fourteen seniors, the corps, organized in 1949, is as much a Fairmont tradition as is "Battle Cry", the school fight song.

Rhythmettes present such crowd pleasing numbers as "Pass Me By", "Hello Dolly", "Give My Regards to Broadway", "Can Can", and "Wouldn't It Be Lovely." Rhythmettes portray a high degree of spirit not only on the football field, but at pep rallies and in everyday student life in general. During the season the corps originates new pep songs and cheers which become an integral part of the West cheering section.

Opening the marching season, the corps performs at the Kettering Holiday at Home parade and evening activities. Entertaining at three basketball games and two band concerts the drill team demonstrates dancing and marching skills. Winning second prize at the "Tipp City Annual Mum Festival" highlighted the Band-Rhythmettes season. Many hours of practice and discipline result in excellent performances and commendations from all who view the routines. Fairmont West praises the group that goes by the name of the "Smiling Rhythies."

Rhythmettes' 17th annual marching season

Weeks of practice combining exercise, strength, pointed toes, hard work, and devotion to the corps result in uniform kick lines and excellent halftime exhibitions.

Mr. David Finkam's enthusiasm permeates through the band, as does the band's spirit through the student body.

Spirit marks the 1965 band season, not only on the football field during colorful halftime shows, but at band practices and pep rallies, alike.

Under the able direction of Mr. David Finkam, and assistant director Mr. Wesley Haines, such entertaining show themes as "A Tribute to Nat King Cole," "Our American Heritage," "A Night at the Opera," and "My Fair Lady" stimulate the attentive fans.

Forfeiting the opportunity to march due to the rain-soaked field, band members combined spirit with solid tones to turn the Homecoming festivities into a memorable evening for students and alumni.

Performing in the "Holiday-at-Home" celebration on Labor Day, initiates the band's season.

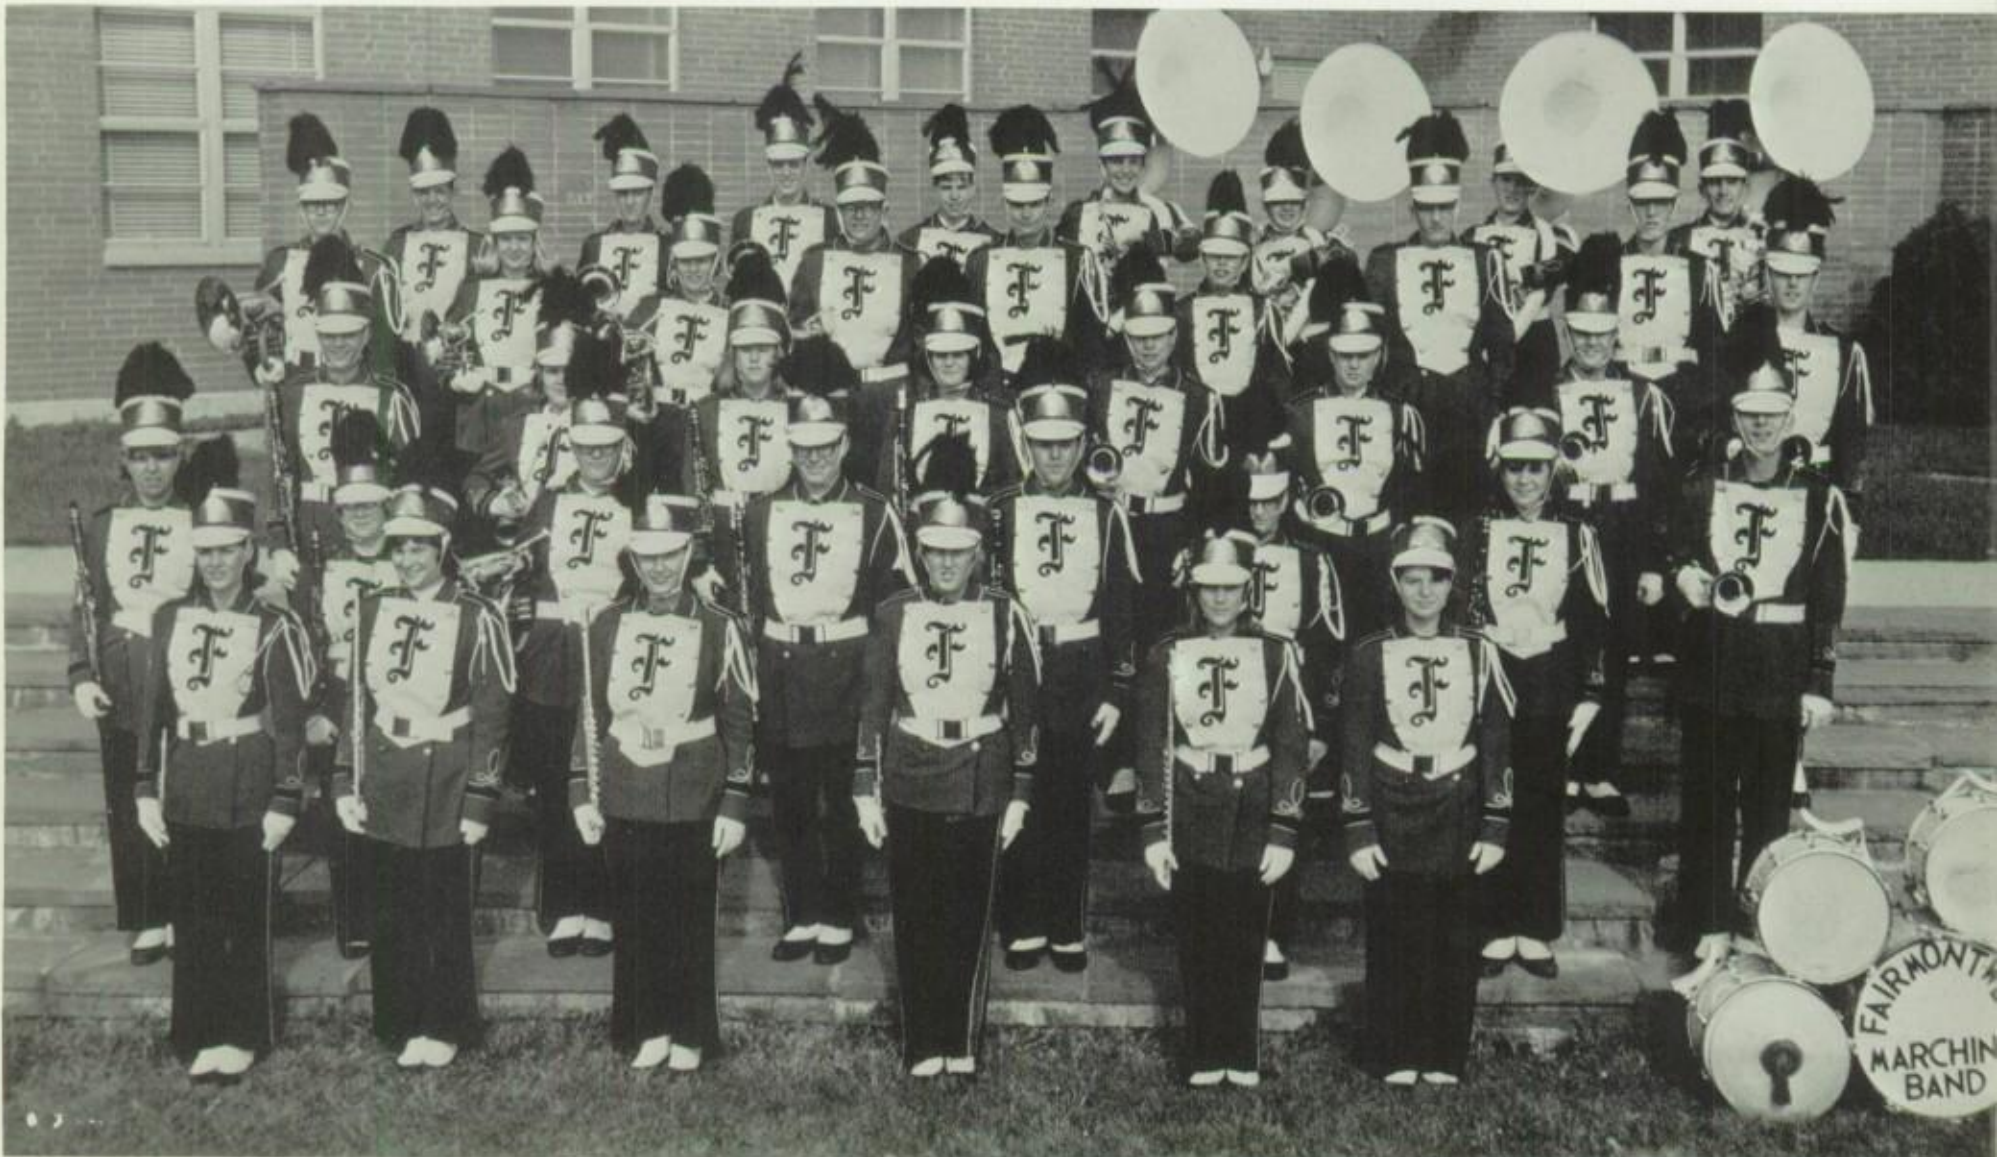

Competing against seven other marching units from West-Central Ohio, Fairmont West's band received second prize, at the Annual Mum Festival in Tipp City.

Fairmont West's band is to be commended for its spirit and achievement.

West's marching band displays winning

presentation of professional performances

Fairmont West's two choruses represent some of the most enthusiastic and interested students in the school.

Appearing at the P.T.A. sponsored "Open House" introduced the season for the school's choirs. Mixed choir members wearing the school's traditional purple robes held the parents in awe as they listened to the accomplishments of two months' work. West's girls' chorus wearing weskits of purple over white skirts proved to have a harmony unsurpassed by other years.

Additional guest performance was given at the annual Christmas program when the chorus combined with the school orchestra to perform the main work of "Song of Christmas." Singing for the members of the A.B.C. Club at the Van Cleve Hotel provided another opportunity for the students to benefit from their knowledge of music by both being able to enjoy their own singing as well as being enjoyed by their audience.

Climax of the year's activities was the presentation of the Broadway musical, "Damn Yankees" to a four-night capacity audience.

Rating "Superior" in the state competition in 1965, West's singing groups under the direction of Mr. Gene Seeberger will continue to inspire and to be a challenge to those interested in vocal music.

Mr. Gene Seeberger strikes a harmonizing chord for 4th and 5th period chorus classes.

SYMPHONIC BAND—Flutes: Randy Reagan, Kahty Schmidt, Karen Ritchie, Linda Melin, Linda Leatherman, Linda Bossi, Janet Ward, Carol Telcher, Barbara Andres, Carmen Olszewski. Oboes: Nancy Music, Barb Bartley. Bb Clarinets: Laurie Connell, Mary Jo Begley, Ted Williams, Greg Coules, Wes Bowman, Barb Heller, Stewart Adam, Doug Kolp, Dwight Davis, Donna Forte, John Sartin, Mike James, Janet Kempfer, Pat Scaife, Dennis Hicks, Linda Marshall, Bob D'Aurora, Claudia Monnett, Elaine Garvic. Alto Clarinets: Donna Taylor, Barbara Rheuble, Rodger Baker. Bass Clarinets: Susan Temple,

Symphonic Band concerts denote heights

Mr. Wesley Haines directs as all his efforts are concentrated toward achieving a highly successful performance.

Consisting of a full-family of woodwind, brass, and percussion instruments, the Fairmont West Symphonic Band plays selections ranging from classical to contemporary works.

Highlighting the musical season is the winter concert given in February. Featuring guest artist, Donald Sinta, an internationally known saxophone virtuoso, the band performed such audience-winning numbers as "Concertino for Alto Saxophone" by Benson, "Adagio and Samba" by Whitney, and "West Side Story" by Bernstein.

West's ninety-two members of the band participate in district and state contests as well as making guest appearances. Annually, band members submit original compositions in competition for a scholarship of up to two hundred dollars which is donated by the parents.

Under the competent direction of Mr. Wesley Haines and his assistant, Mr. David Finkam, the Symphonic Band performs to heights of excellence in all of its endeavors.

of music excellence

Practice and concentration are the keynotes to perfection for Symphonic Band.

Warm-up is a tedious task for drummer, John Ely, as he tunes a sensitive timpani with a discerning ear.

Guest artist for the winter concert, accomplished musician Nancie Fisher, displays her hard worked for and finest pianist abilities.

Mr. Donald Detrick, the orchestra's director, combines years of experience with talented musicians for an excellent performance.

Combined efforts of each section member helps to develop the fine tone quality achieved by the orchestra.

Performances provide opportunities for

Participation in the Fairmont West High School Orchestra aids in developing a wide variety of appreciation of classical, semi-classical, musical comedy selections, and music of current times. Strengthening the social consciousness is the responsibility of its members, as well as providing an opportunity to enjoy themselves through music.

West's Orchestra performs at school, civic and similar community events. It participates in contests striving to attain a high degree of personal and group accomplishment. Most important event of the year is the orchestra's participation in the State Orchestra Contest held every spring in Columbus. Fairmont West's Orchestra achieves excellent ratings in these contests. Playing for the annual operetta, class plays, and presenting two yearly formal concerts adds to the orchestra's many varied activities for its members.

Guest artist for the orchestra during its winter concert, was Miss Nancie Fisher, a senior at Fairmont West and an accomplished musician.

After sending in application for Regional Orchestra, a qualified and talented student may be eligible for the All-State Orchestra. Five of the 59 talented members of the orchestra actively engaged in the All-State Orchestra are: John MacBain, Jim Utzinger, Ken Clark, Randy Reagan, and Dennis Herron.

Under the excellent direction of Mr. Donald Detrick, judges acclaim West's orchestra a "superior" one.

exceptional talent

Daniel Boen, Jane Biddle, Steve Nelson. HARP: Martha Apple. CONTRA-BASS CLARINET: John Fouke. HORN: Dennis Herron, Carol James, Pat Himebaugh, Joe Federle. TRUMPET: Ron Canham, Dick Wittebort, Mark Jolley. TROMBONE: Bud Banks, Dan Duell, Bill Dicke. TUBA: Steve Nelson.

Steve Nelson, Pam Cotter, and Jane Biddle show intense concentration as they perform in one of the many fine concerts presented by the Fairmont West orchestra.

Jezebel's priestesses (Karen Amand, Sandy Grice, Terry Hively, Karen Ritchie, Nancy Wilkens, Nancy Urban, and Beth Nolan) escort Prince Ethbal (Douglas Monschke).

Moving drama, Jezebel, splendidly portrayed by Miss Leah Funck's version of the Biblical story, was a typically outstanding Fairmont West production. Through a Senior class presentation, combined efforts of the orchestra, stage crew, the student organizers, and West's fine speech department made the play a credit to the entire student body.

Double cast as Jezebel, brunette Jan Schuerholz and blonde Charla Graham used Ahab, portrayed by Doug Hinkley, to gain the title of queen. Prophet Elijah, played by Martin Holsinger, became the object of Ahab's wrath. Twenty-eight priestesses added variety and color.

Certainly, all people involved should be commended for the overwhelming success of Jezebel. However, special commendation must go to Miss Leah Funck, who did such a fine job writing and directing the play.

Senior play, "Jezebel,"

Discussing the subject of Jehu, Abigail (Candis Gray) and Miriam (Kathy Stone) find much to talk about.

Ahab (Douglas Hinkley) and Obidiah (Thomas Stork) prepare to depart their much loved country, as Miriam (Diane Dolfman) daughter of Naboth looks on.

At the throne, King Jehosaphat (Richard Wittman) Ishbal (Thomas Brewer), Jezebel (Jan Schuerholz), Jehu (Bill Nelson), and Ahab (Doug Hinkley) admire the queen's royal appearance and queenly ambitions.

generates interest in Biblical culture at West

Biblical prophet Elijah, portrayed by Martin Holsinger, culminates the play with a pleading cry to God for rains to come to the land of Jezreel Naboth (Steve Nelson) shuns the hurling rocks and mortal cries of the angry mob.

Aided by Lee McDaniel; Ken Tanner; Glen Kershner; Dave Kissell; and Tim Nash; Gloria Thorpe, Beth Nolan; makes "Shoeless Joe" famous.

Visualizing his name in the Hall of Fame convinces Joe Boyd, Bill Lamme, to join forces with Mr. Applegate and bring victories to the Senators.

Devils, diamonds, dug-outs familiar words;

Lola tries to tempt Joe Hardy, Don Hockett, into making a date.

Striving for success are directors Raymonde Nicely, Donna Coffey, and Barb Knipp.

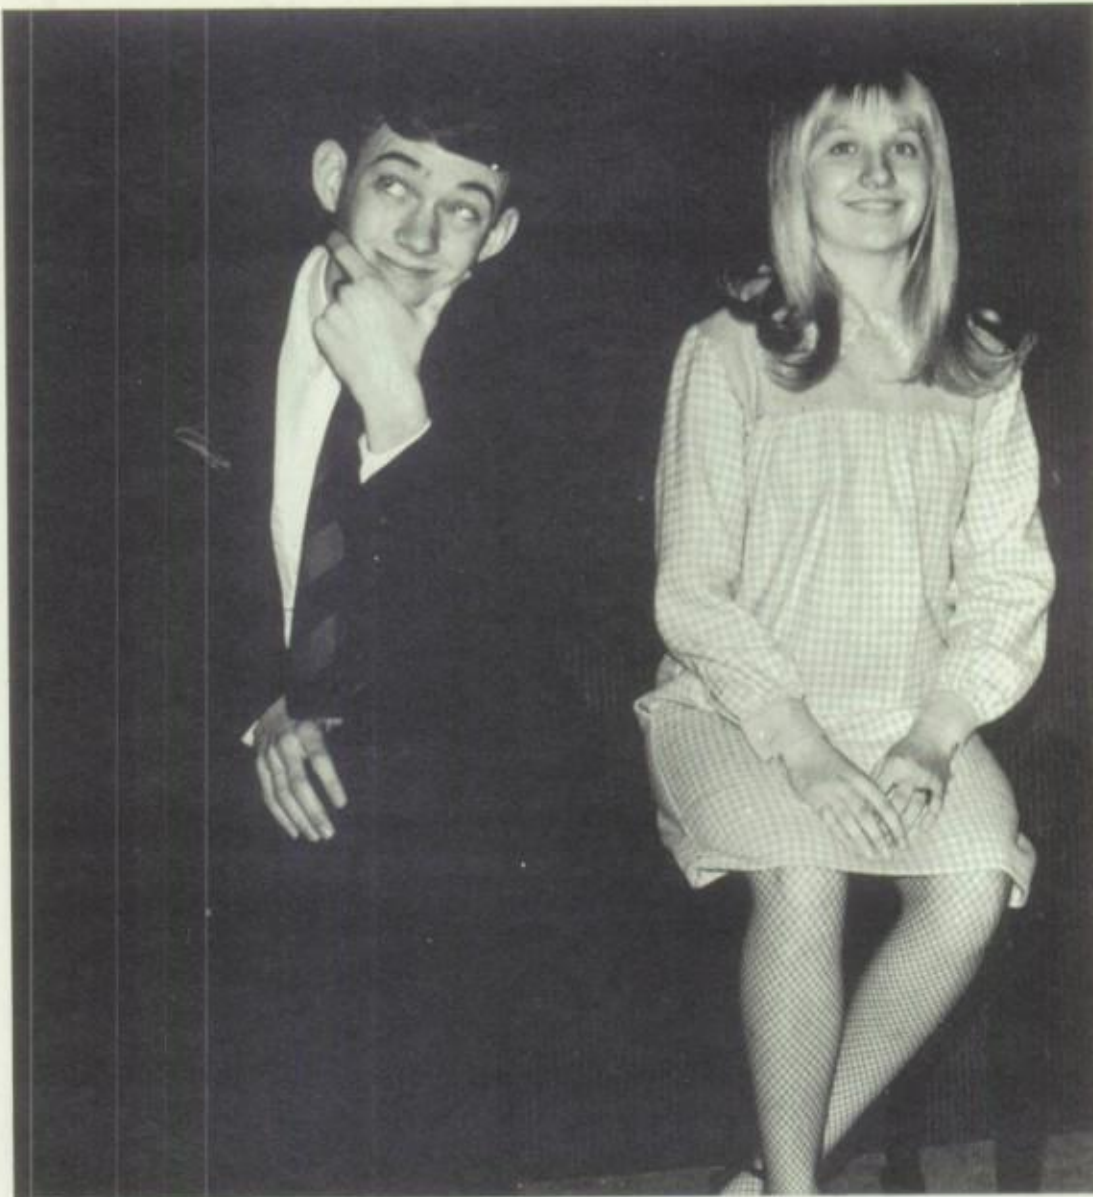

Co-operation of the fine chorus and orchestra brought Broadway to Fairmont West through production of "Damn Yankees." Based on the book, The Year the Yankees Lost the Pennant, the smashing musical comedy proved a success.

Joe and Meg Boyd live a quiet life six months out of the year; the remaining six months Joe devotes every minute to supporting his favorite team, the Washington Senators, who constantly lose.

In desperation Joe decides he would sell his soul for one long-ball hitter. Distinguished Mr. Applegate arrives suddenly to accept this offer. Transforming Joe into Joe Hardy, a terrific young protégé, Mr. Applegate proceeds to get him on the Senators team. Joe insists upon an "escape clause" which would permit him to return to his former self at midnight on September 24.

Plotting their plays for the new scheme are Mr. Applegate, Bill Nelson, and his able associate, Lola, Anita Youngman.

as "Damn Yankees" echoes through West

Baseball is one-half heart explains manager, Bryan McAdow.

Singing baseball players pledge themselves to forget everything except "The Game."

Transforming Glen Kershner are Barb Essenpreis and Kathy Day.

Meg Boyd, Candy Gray, sings while unattentive husband, Joe, watches the game.

Spring Musical

Realizing their opportunity to win the pennant has arrived, Mr. Welch, the team owner; Van Buren, the manager; and all ball-players welcome the young hero.

Mr. Applegate's problems remain unsolved because Gloria Thorpe, reporter, accuses Joe of being Shifty McCoy, who took a bribe in the Mexican League. Joe becomes increasingly restless and yearns to return to his wife. Attempting to settle this problem, Mr. Applegate sends for Lola, a 172-year-old witch, recently turned into a young temptress.

Climaxing in a court-room scene on the 24th, Meg and her friends testify that Joe is not Shifty McCoy. Midnight passes and Joe belongs to Mr. Applegate. With a lightning catch the following day, Washington wins the pennant just as Mr. Applegate transforms Joe into his former self. Joe Boyd returns to Meg who warmly welcomes him.

Under the excellent direction of Mr. Gene Seeburger, Mr. Don Detrick, Mr. Leland Hall and students, Donna Coffey, Barb Knipp and Raymonde Nicely, the musical was truly a sensation.

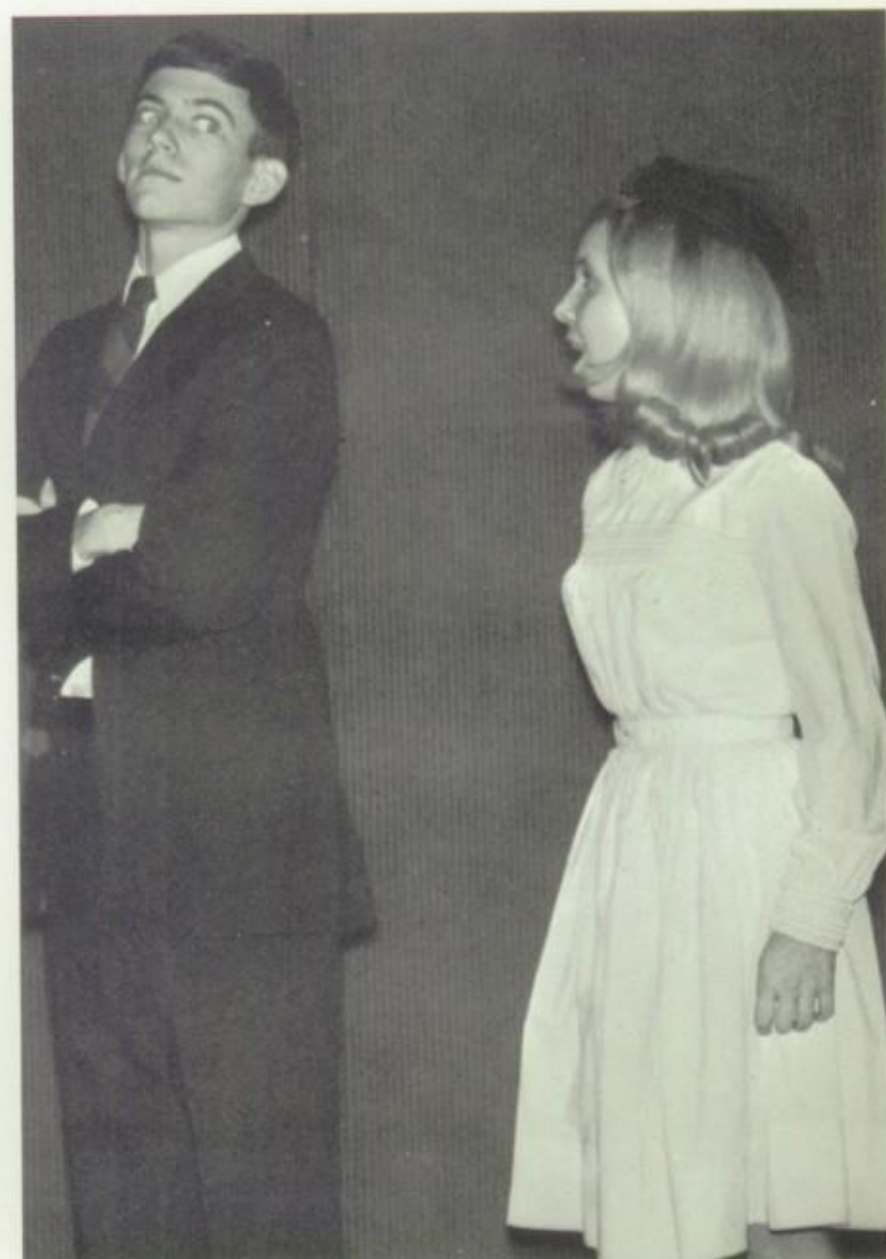

Congratulations go to the entire cast for many fine performances.

gains ovations of four enthusiastic audiences

Meg, Brenda Collins, entertains two of her friends, Doris, Marcia MacCagno; and Sister, Sandy Reed as they discuss plans for the testimonials for Joe.

Constantly worrying Mr. Applegate, Gloria attempts to get him to divulge the true identity and story of the baseball player, Joe Hardy.

Doug Keister, Joe DeHaven, Les Ferguson, and Mary Ann Kowaski enjoy a refreshing glass of punch during intermission at the Senior Dance.

Music by the Columbians completes ideal evening for many couples.

Senior dance, "December Dream," heralds

Peddlers Five entertain students with group sing-a-long.

Dressed in their best Christmas attire, many students will long remember the Senior Dance as one of the most memorable events of the school year.

holiday season

Lilting music furnished by the Columbians provided the final exquisite touch to "December Dream." Playing a combined style of music, the band appealed to all those attending the dance. Engulfed in a world of snowflakes, tinsel, and bright Christmas tree, hard-working committees transformed the gym into a fantastic fairyland.

In keeping with the traditional spirit, couples brought gifts to brighten Christmas for Dayton's under-privileged children.

Entertainment from the Peddler's Five offered opportunities for a variety of music and even a chance to sing-a-long. Fine performances of popular folk-songs rated strong approval.

During the intermission, punch and cookies provided a refreshing interlude for 150 couples.

Ushering in the holiday season, enthusiasm and excitement reigned to achieve a festive atmosphere. Sponsored by Fairmont West's Senior Class, the dance vividly remains a memory, a "December Dream."

Senior, Greg Snyder finds visiting with the chaperones becomes an enjoyable experience.

Music provided by "The Columbians," agreed with tastes of all present.

GAA members and dates relax with refreshments to admire lovely decorations.

Illuminating the gray winter night with fun,

Excellent music generated spirited atmosphere of fellowship and laughter.

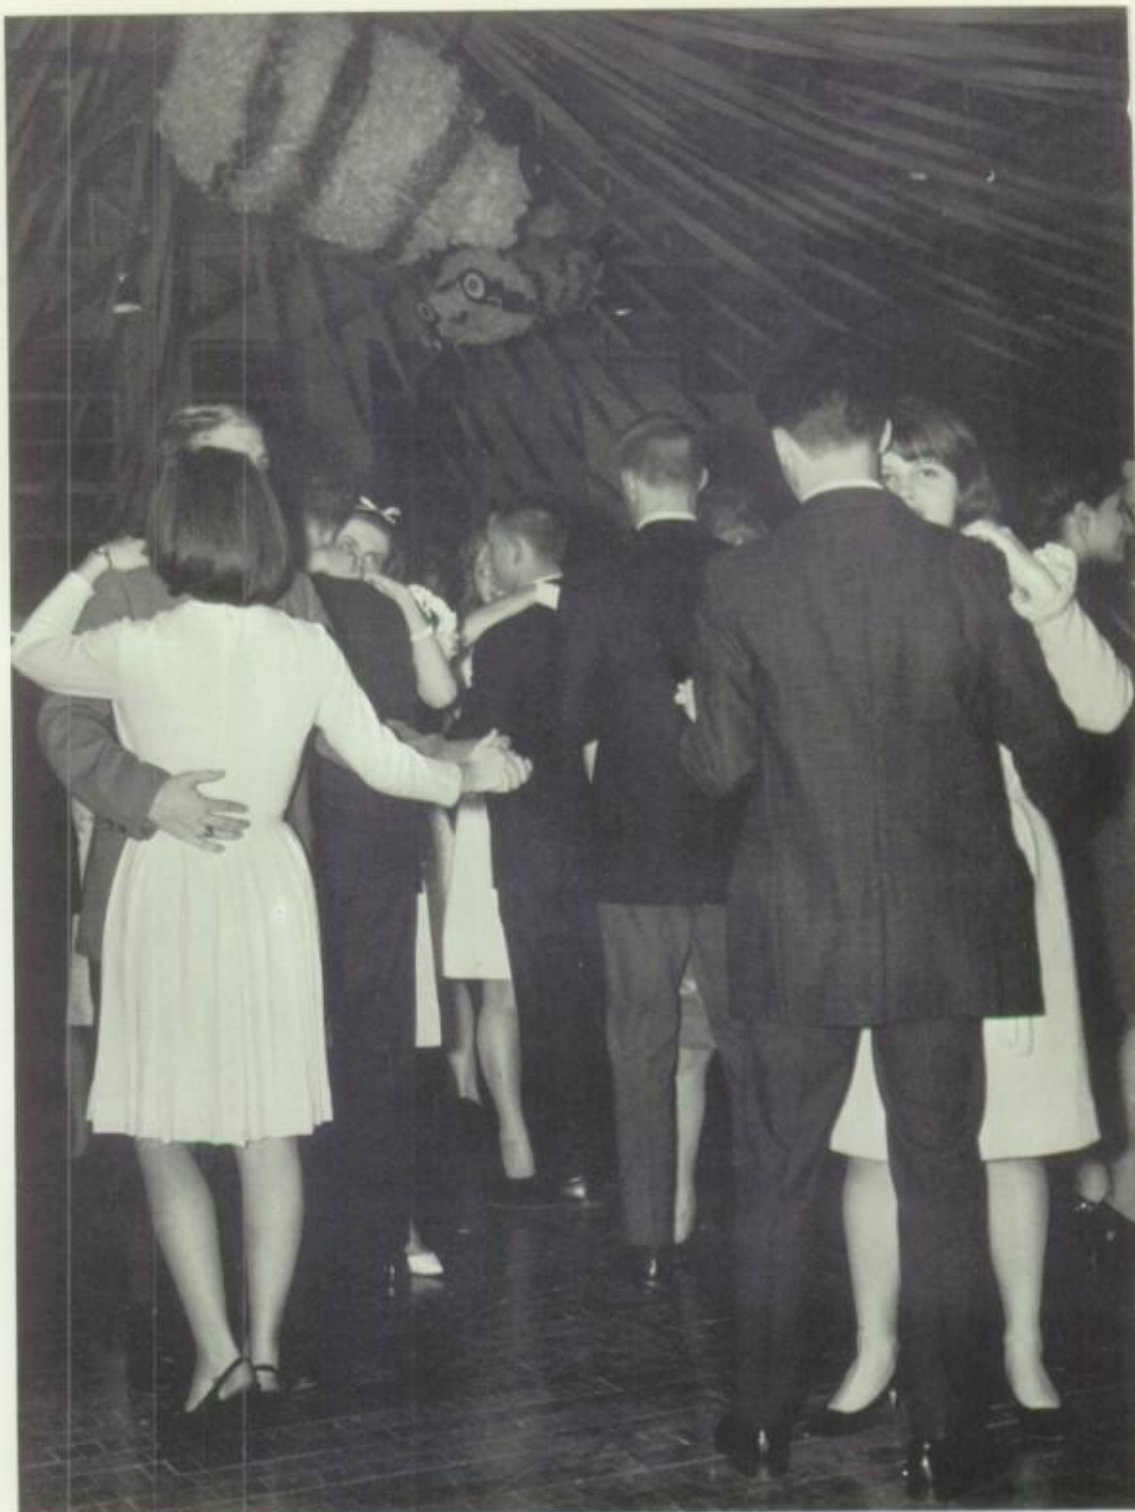

With the first real snowfall of the year came "June In January," given by the Girls Athletic Association. Attendance to the semi-formal dance was limited to GAA members only and their dates.

Diligent work and much time were expended by the girls to create the atmosphere of a lazy summer evening. Above flowers, trees, butterflies, and a wishing well, hung two enormous crepe paper honeybees.

Providing a diversion for the evening's intermission was a quartet of West's vocalists, Bill Lamme, Bill Nelson, Glen Kershner, and Steve Smith. Their selection of delightful tunes contributed much to the night of enchantment.

Accenting the late January ball with a marvelous variety of popular songs were "The Columbians." Excellent music, beautiful decorations, and semi-formal dress attributed to one of the most outstanding events of West's social season.

Huge bumblebees, suspended from streamered ceiling, view the whirling dancers.

"June in January" enchants GAA members

Refreshments, homemade cookies and punch provide a welcome break for weary couples.

students' desire to give

Sue Temple and Sandy Klatt precisely connect callers to the correct room.

Giving is better than receiving, and students gain this satisfaction by working to help make "West the best." They serve in cooperation with teachers to get things done quickly and efficiently.

Lab assistants help science teachers in setting up the day's apparatus so that each pair of students may have its equipment ready to begin the experiment.

Student secretaries and office secretaries obtain experience in the secretarial field while helping teachers and office secretaries with their daily tasks.

Stage crew members insure that everything runs smoothly at class productions.

By helping their teachers, West's assistants improve both the student-teacher relationship and their school.

Co-operation and exertion—keys to success

AUDIO-VISUAL WORKERS—Mr. Wylie Graham, Hardin Collins, Ruth Thomas, Rick Smith, John Corban.

Service at West is on a voluntary basis. When the administration requests workers, students respond by giving up their valuable time to help operate the special facilities of the school.

Library assistants make possible fast withdrawal of books and assistance at any time. They also relieve regular librarians of these small responsibilities so they may concentrate on providing the best possible availability and arrangement of books.

Audio-visual workers constantly supply rooms with projectors, tape recorders, and record players so they may have the advantage of this special equipment in bringing modern concepts to the classrooms.

Work of the hall monitors involves many different jobs. Each distributes library passes at the beginning of the period and redistributes them after students turn them in at the library; he runs errands for office secretaries and teachers; he keeps halls free of unauthorized students.

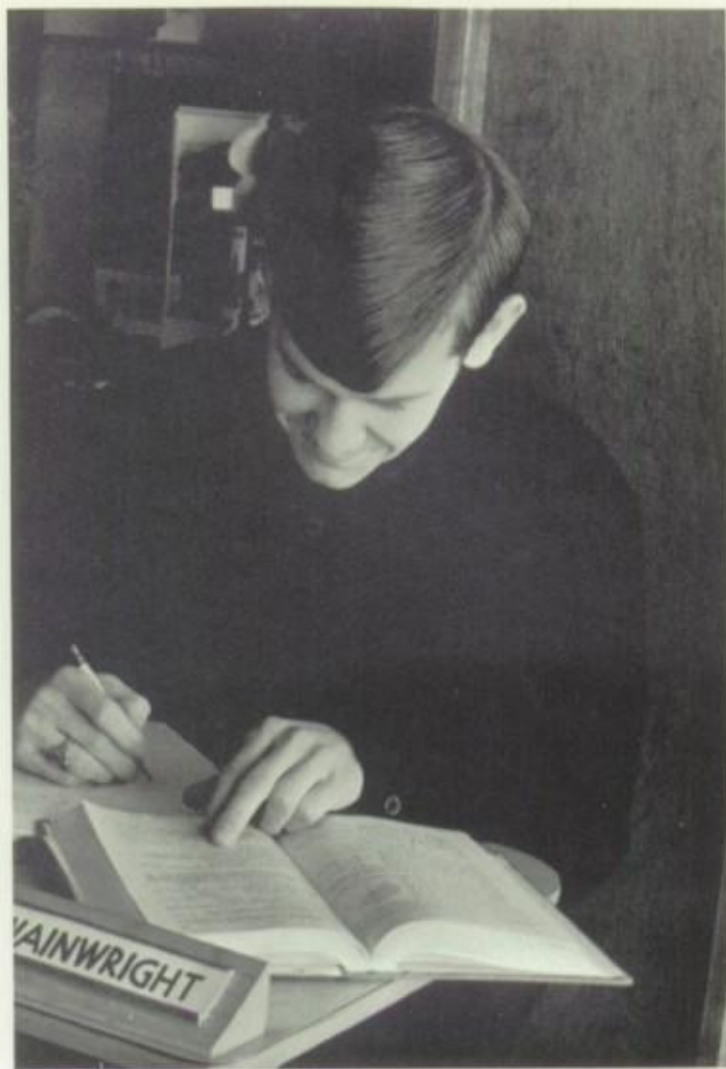

Book store workers provide students with the many materials needed for a varied program such as that which is offered to all of those who attend West.

Voluntary workers provide students with all of these privileges which would be unavailable or limited without them. Certificates which they are given are small rewards for their sacrifices.

BOOKSTORE WORKERS—Penny Puls, Larry Holden, Dave Gantz, Linda Lennon, Jan Maddox, Jane Apple, Barb Linton.

Using time wisely is important agrees Brad Wainwright as he finishes math problems during his hour as hall monitor.

West's Culture Fair uniquely displaying our American heritage is the tremendous brainchild of Mr. Hugh Brown, an East Unit Social Studies teacher. Through such exhibits as: Music; Food, Clothing and Home Decor; Art and Literature; and Warfare; Mr. Brown's first period sociology class created an excellent and enjoyable portrayal of our cultural development.

Many of West's curious-minded students attended the Culture Fair and discovered six bright and educational displays.

It is hoped that the Culture Fair will be continued as a tool of learning to help West students better appreciate their American heritage.

Football

Dynamic Dragons end with 5-5 record

Pat Combs stops elusive Xenia ballcarrier.

Losing the first three games failed to depress the dynamic Dragon spirit. Each of these opponents had previously appeared in the listing of the "top ten" football powers in the state.

West appeared to gain momentum with the opening of the Western Ohio League season by defeating Xenia 34-0. Then things began to click; the key to West's success being the jolting offensive play coupled with the bruising defense.

Experienced veterans in virtually every position proved to be both inspirational and challenging to Coach Robert Hildreth.

Following the Xenia victory, the Dragon spirit continued to soar by winning five consecutive Western Ohio League games. West's gridders continued to improve in spirit and ability, coming from behind in virtually every game.

Statistics confirm West's potential by its gaining a total of 134 first downs in contrast to the opponents' 129; West's net yards gained totaled 2338 as compared to 2060 by other teams.

After being upset by Springfield North 27-6, the Dragons faced a show-down situation for the WOL championship against a strong Fairborn squad. Although West played the best game of its season, the team was edged by Fairborn 12-7; and thus for the second year in a row taking second place in the Western Ohio League play.

Discussing game strategy, enthusiasm of coach Robert Hildreth inspires senior quarterback, John Armbruster.

Dragons drop first three against state-ranked

Dragons gather for prayer before game.

gridiron opponents

Opening the season with perennially-tough Middletown, the Dragons were beaten by a balanced offensive attack under the direction of all-state quarterback, Jim Ousley. West seemed to fall apart after a delay-of-game penalty on a crucial 3rd down situation ended a drive deep in Middle-territory. Final score was 47-12.

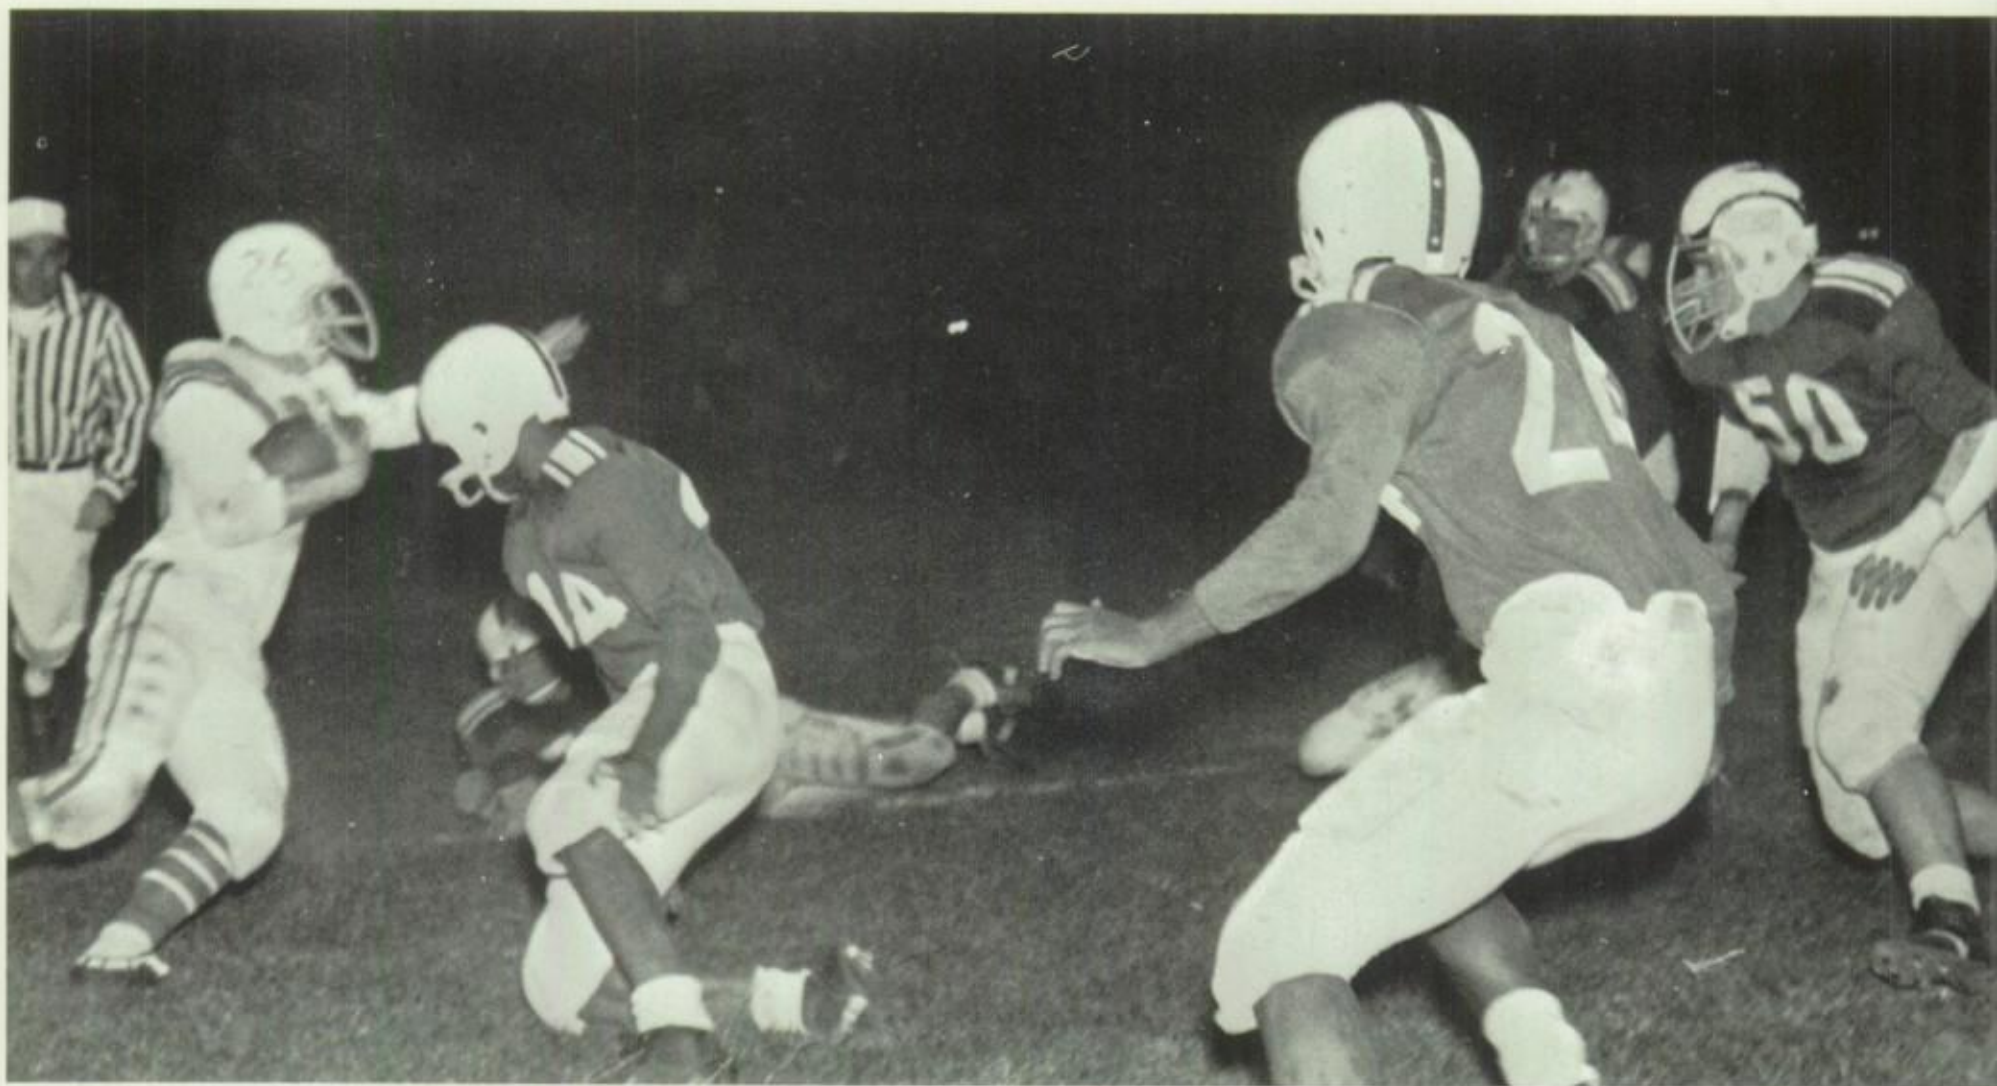

Traveling to Springfield the following week, West was defeated 22-0 by Springfield South. West had two major offensive drives, but both of these were stopped just inches short of the goal line.

Playing a very strong game, the upset-minded Dragons almost beat Chaminade, the area's second-ranked team. West led at half-time 8-6, but Chaminade capitalized on fumbles and erratic passing to come from behind to beat the Dragons 28-16.

All-league back, Ron Zaremski, drives for a touchdown.

Carrying the ball Tom Madliger finds himself encircled behind line of scrimmage by Springfield North defender.

Dragons finish strong, winning five of seven

Marc Shoemacher brings down Middletown's hard-running halfback.

Opening WOL play with a strong offensive attack and a hard-nosed defense to stop Xenia 34-0, the Dragons continued on their winning ways by then defeating Beavercreek and Stebbins the next two weekends with identical 21-0 scores.

Against Wayne, the Dragons proved they could win despite the conditions, as they beat the Warriors in a real "mud-bath" 26-12. In the next game, the Dragons showed they could come from behind to win by defeating our crosstown rivals, Fairmont East, by the sound score of 27-7.

West was looking ahead too much and was upset by a strong Springfield North team 27-6 as they completely throttled West's high-scoring offensive machine, resulting in a showdown game with Fairborn for the WOL championship.

West drew first blood by capitalizing on Fairborn's mistakes and so went in at halftime with a 7-0 lead. Second half was a different story, as a hard rain put a damper on West's attack. Fighting for every inch of ground was to no avail as a strong Fairborn team pushed across two second-half touchdowns and stopped a late rally by West to win the game and the championship 12-7.

remaining contests

Ron Zaremski, 12, moves in on Xenia's outstanding end.

Earl Riggs, 64, drops opponent behind the line of scrimmage.

Facing his eighth and final season as the head coach of cross country at Fairmont West with only two returning lettermen, Mr. Ross Bateson was faced with the challenge of transforming an inexperienced team into one of the area's powerhouses.

Mr. Bateson succeeded admirably as his team, paced by Seniors, John Theriault, Bob Burrows, Bruce Clever, and Jim Wick, came from a slow start to a strong finish.

Fairmont West proved to be very strong in its larger meets such as the Miami Invitational (5th), Lowell Thomas Invitational (2nd), Fairview Invitational (4th), and the Western Ohio League meet (2nd).

Highlighting the season, of course, would be the copping of second place in the District meet which, after a few obstacles were overcome, enabled them to compete at the State meet where they finished in 20th place, a notable achievement with more than 250 teams throughout the state competing.

John Theriault finishes first while Ned Treat presents him with the winning time slip in W.O.L. meet with Xenia.

Difficult schedule

Dave Ruth out-jumps determined league player from Stebbins to secure important tip-off for West

What looked to be a tough schedule on paper, proved to be just that, as the Dragons dropped eight out of their first ten games. Inexperience and stiff opposition contributed to the slow start.

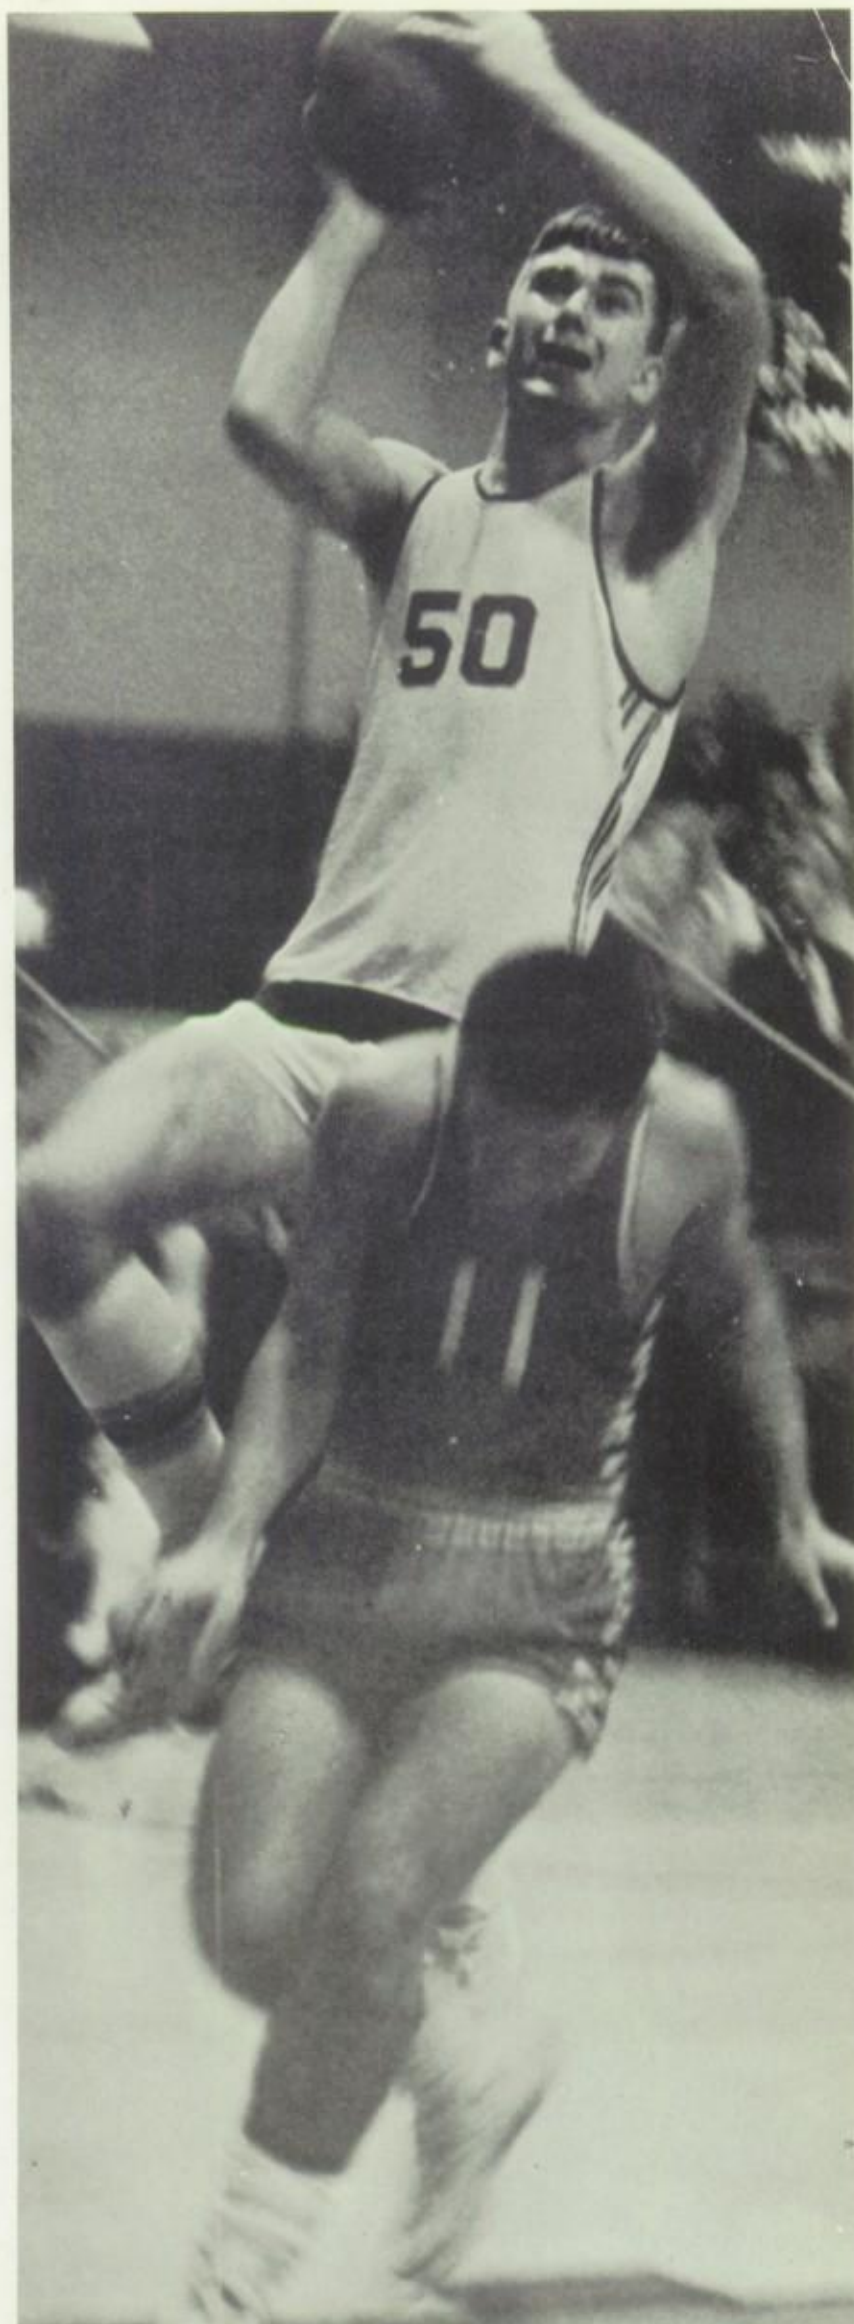

Dunbar, the season's opener, seemed to set the pattern for the ensuing games, with the Wolverines winning a very close game, 85-81, in overtime. West scored and rebounded well; turnovers and defective defense play proved to be their downfall. Wilbur Wright provided a pleasant interlude between losses. Dave Ruth's 37-point effort, combined with fine all-around team play gave the Dragons an encouraging victory.

Belmont caught West on a very bad night and soundly beat the Dragons 73-54. Against perennial-rival Chaminade, ranked second in the state, the Dragons played well before finally succumbing to a tight full-court press and excellent shooting. Roth and Colonel White combined to give West's basketballers another losing weekend. Two foul shots in the last five seconds gave Colonel White a decisive victory.

Scoring a solid victory over Carroll during the Holiday Tournament primed the Dragons for their game in the finals with Alter. West played excellent ball for three quarters and at one time led by 15 points. Dragons faltered in the fourth period and the Knights rode a hot hand to an 81-71 decision.

gives West slow start

Stan Ramsey shoots from charity line while teammate, Rick Jacobs 42, waits anxiously for rebound during opening game with Dunbar.

Seniors, Steve Pease, 24; and Stan Ramsey, 50; fight for rebound with Fairborn.

WOL competition found the Dragons playing pre-season favorites Xenia and Beavercreek in the first two games. Xenia, boasting a strong record in pre-league games out-shot the Dragon cagers at Xenia. Good shooting on both sides kept the game at a close margin until foul difficulty proved costly to West.

During the Beavercreek-West clash, the Beaver came on strong in the last quarter to catch the Dragons 71-66. This loss dimmed considerably any hopes for a WOL crown.

Fairmont West basketball took a turn for the better. Stebbins fell before the Dragons as they started what was to be a six-game winning streak. Strong rebounding and balanced scoring gave West a convincing 80-63 victory. Against Springfield South the next night the Dragons really got rolling. Coming within two points of a school scoring record West routed highly regarded South 91-82. Wayne provided a good time-up for the encounter with Fairmont East as West swept by the Warriors 77-52.

Tension mounts

Bob Viets "puts the skids" on rival opponent East in over-time game.

Records mean very little when East and West meet in an athletic contest. From start to finish the score was tied 14 times, with the biggest lead of the game being a six-point spread held by East with 2½ minutes to play. West fought back to tie the score on sophomore Joe Hamilton's fantastic shot at the buzzer. Deadly foul shooting brought the Dragons a 67-66 overtime victory.

Knocking off a good Oxford Talawanda team, Dave Ruth returned to early season form as he scored 26 points to lead the Dragons.

Despite a strongly partisan crowd and pep band, West won another last second victory at Springfield North.

Good outside shooting and a rather leaky defense enabled Fairborn to come from behind in the third quarter to defeat West 90-81.

After the disappointing loss to Fairborn, the Dragons were slow in getting started against Lima. West fought back from a 10-point deficit to within one point in the fourth quarter before Lima pulled away to an 80-69 victory.

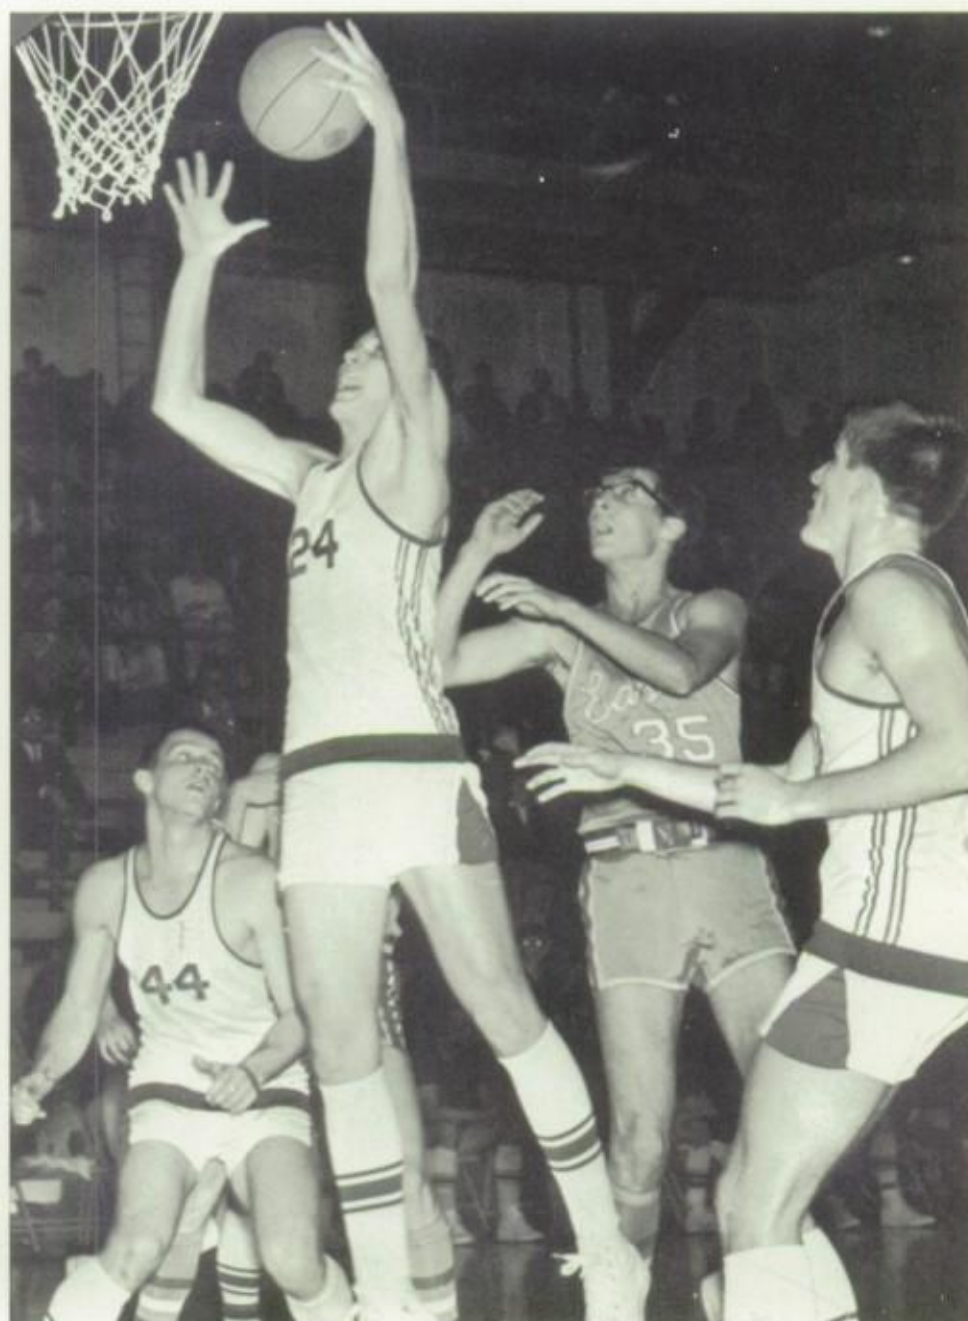

Dave Ruth pulls down much-needed rebound in league play with Fairborn.

as Dragons down Falcons in over-time game

Steve Pease goes high for a rebound in rival game with Fairmont East.

Using perfected jump shot, Dave Ruth sinks an important bucket.

Rick Jacobs, pulls in important rebound.

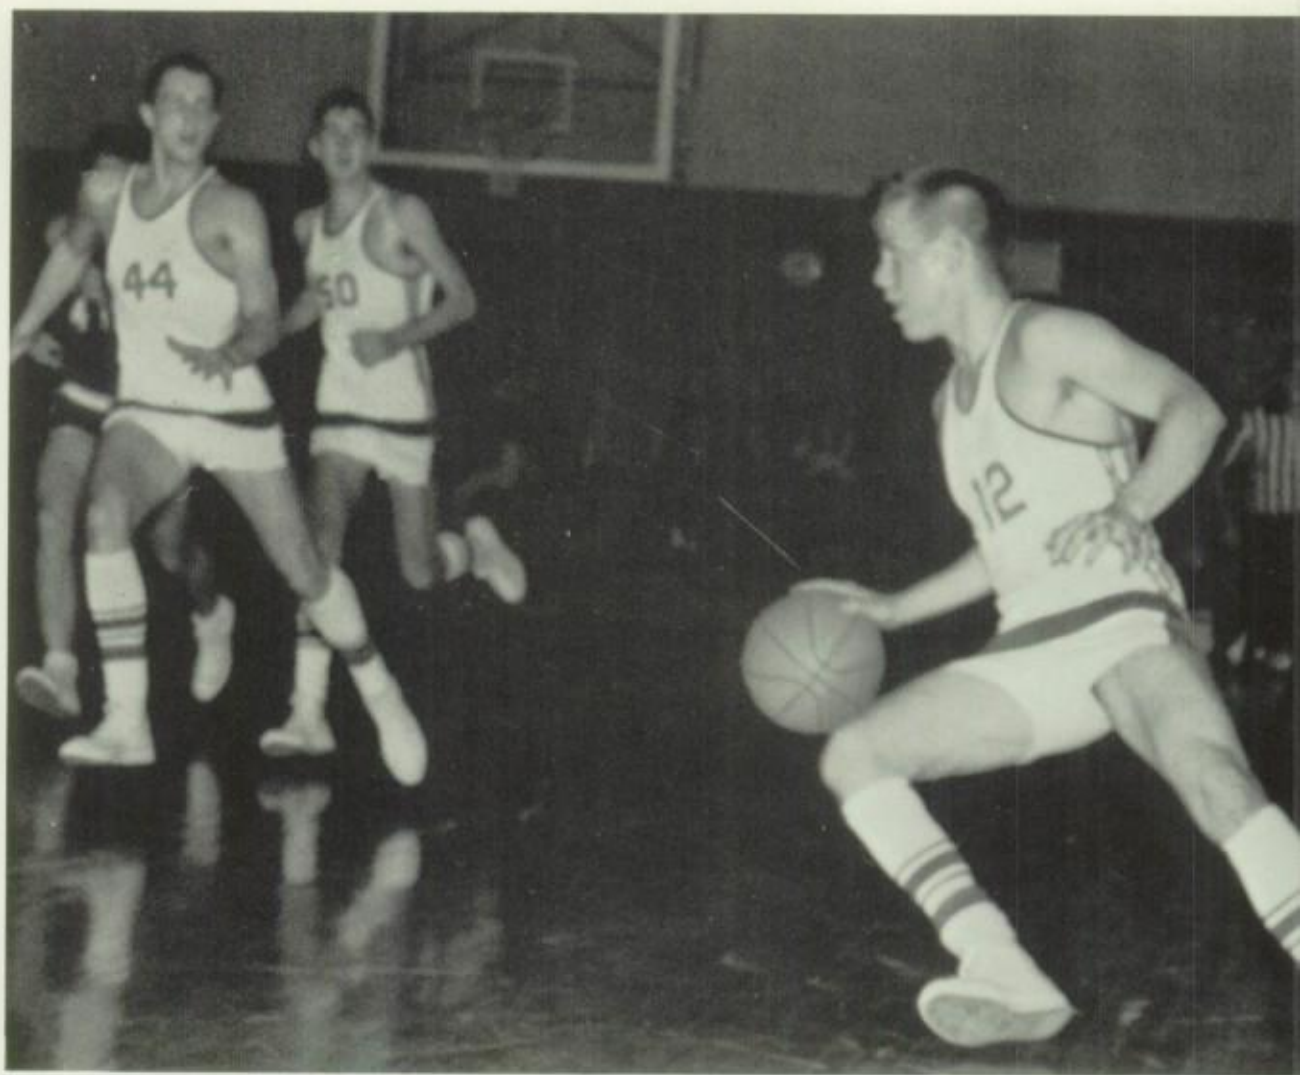

Small and scrappy were the Miamisburg five as West's first victim fell 68-60 in opening Dayton class AA tournament play. Dragon cagers led by as many as 14 points and as few as 4 in the last quarter before pulling out their slim victory.

Third-seeded team Wilmington found itself among the upset victims as West, led by Joe Hamilton's 33 points, beat the Hurricanes 61-57. Colonel White's Cougars, who had previously beaten the Dragons in regular season play, led by as many as 16 points, but were defeated 66-65 in last minute efforts by West.

Possibly the most exciting game of the year gave the Dragons a much-wanted victory over the 2nd seeded Roosevelt Teddies in the semifinals, 66-65. This victory gave the Dragons the right to play 1st seeded Chaminade for the Dayton class AA title.

Coming on with strong offensive efforts Cham-inade's Eagles pulled ahead of the West Dragons by 20 points during the first half. Mr. John Stuckey's "never say die" Dragons returned the second half in a futile effort to close the gap, but found it too large as the cagers dropped their last game 89-54.

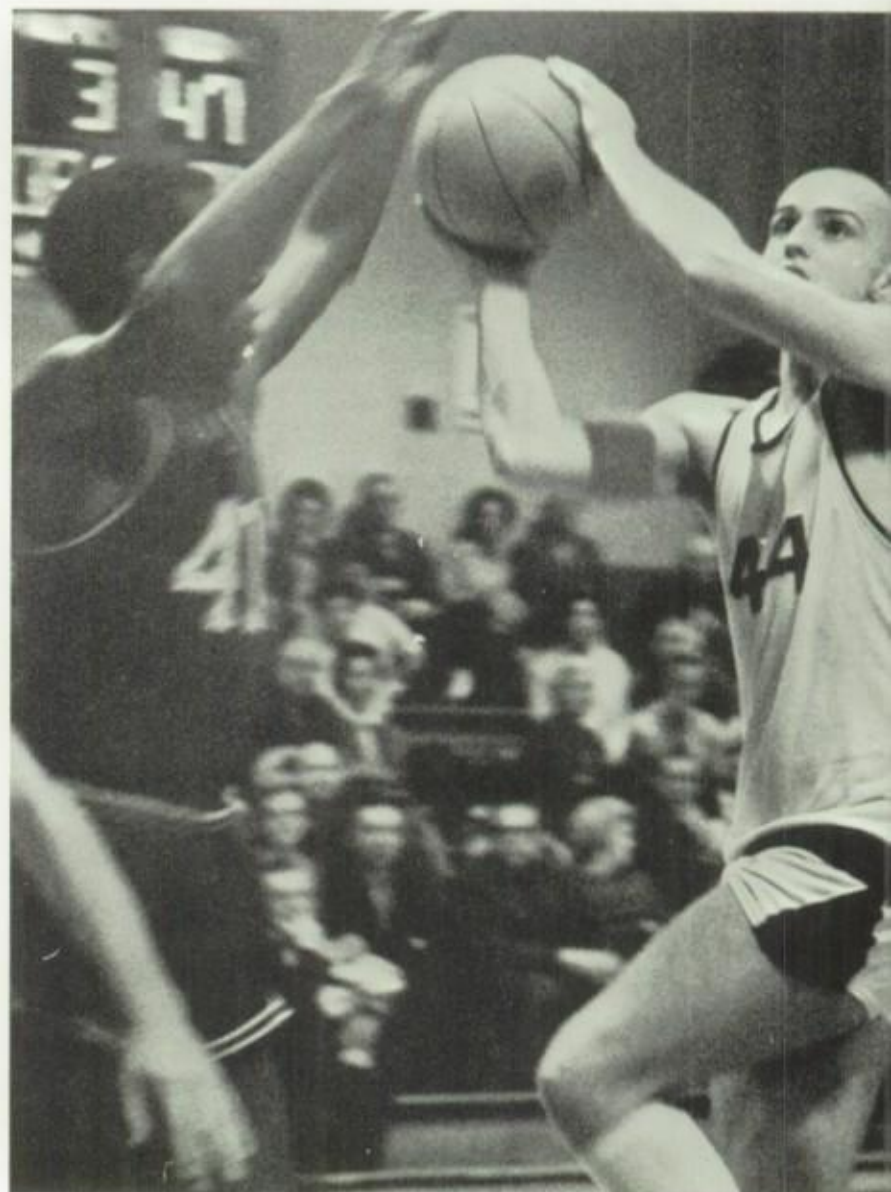

Defeated in the finals, Fairmont West's basketballers gave Mr. Stuckey his last winning season (12-11) and second place in the Dayton class AA tournament.

Bob Viets slows down the pace until his teammates Dave Ruth and Stan Ramsey can get in position.

Tom Baker, co-captain, talks with coaches concerning dual meet with Fairmont East.

Starting the season with only four seniors on the varsity team, West could finish no higher than 6th place in the Beavercreek Invitational as Tom Baker (127) led the Dragons by taking 2nd place. At this point in the schedule, the Dragons decided to really buckle down as they then copped 4th place in the Stebbins Invitational, the "Tournament of Champions," only one point from second-place Belmont and Northmont.

It takes lots of hard work, and determination, to make a good wrestling team, and this is just what the Dragons were made of as they took 3rd place in their own Fairmont West Invitational. In this tournament, Mark Shoemaker took first place in his weight class (175) and Tom Baker placed second. In the Western Ohio League meet, the Dragons took a second place behind a strong Beavercreek team. Jim Barnes (103) and Mark Shoemaker (175) were victors in this tournament.

Agile gymnasts

Coach Don Perry and the gymnastic team came through with another successful season, a 5-3 record and several high-ranking places in three invitational tournaments. Although plagued with injuries, the Dragon gymnasts placed third in the Hamilton Taft Invitational. They grabbed the second place trophy at their own Invitational, and took second place to defending champions Fairmont East in the Western Ohio League meet.

Overall success of the season resulted from the extensive individual efforts of the team members. Coach Perry remarked that this was one of the most spirited, most coachable teams he has ever had. Team's strong events included high bar, trampoline, and side horse. Gene Gilbert working free exercise, tumbling, and long horse vaulting, was high scorer for the year. Efforts of Joe DeHaven and Doug Keister on the high bar, Fred Rowland and Dave Sachleben on the trampoline, and George Taylor and Mike Steuert on the side horse proved to be extremely important to the team's scoring.

Gymnastics continues as a growing sport in the state of Ohio and the competition is increasing at a fast rate. With the success and spirit of this team, gymnastics promises to become extremely important to Fairmont West's future athletic program.

for hockey team

Selection of the girls reserve and varsity field hockey teams takes place during the second week of the school year.

Team members immediately undertake a week of diligent practice to prepare for the first opponent of the season. Determination, dedication and the combined efforts of all team members constitute the prime factors in the development of the successful season.

Serving in her first year as coach of the hockey teams, Miss Penelope Mott motivated the varsity team members to display their skills by winning five games, losing two and tying one.

Dragonettes on defensive play demonstrated their strength by limiting foes to four goals, while offensive members supported them with the scoring of eleven goals in the eight conflicts of the season.

Highlight of the reserve season occurred when West defeated Fairmont East by two goals. Downed by Oakwood, the reserves completed the season with a 3-4-1 record.

undefeated year

Never-ending goal to win games accounts for the 10-0 season record obtained by the girls' varsity volleyball team.

Fairmont East and Troy easily succumbed to forceful determination of West to seek revenge against the two teams that marred last year's record. With the spirit of the new coach, Miss Barbara Barbour to back them, the girls added six more victories to produce a perfect record.

Reserves, with a 3-5 record scored their wins against Troy, Lebanon and Centerville. Individual strength shown by the reserve team members will be an advantage to form a successful team next year.

Gymnastics involves fun, physical fitness, diligent practice, tough competition, and the achievement of a special skill for each girl who participates on the team. As a physical activity, gymnastics becomes more popular each year because girls are given an opportunity to be active in sports, and yet gain poise and agility.

Rewarded by the many hours of practice, the team achieved an undefeated season in the meets against other schools. Competing in tumbling, balance beam, trampoline, sidehorse vaulting and the free exercise events, the girls proved their superiority over other teams.

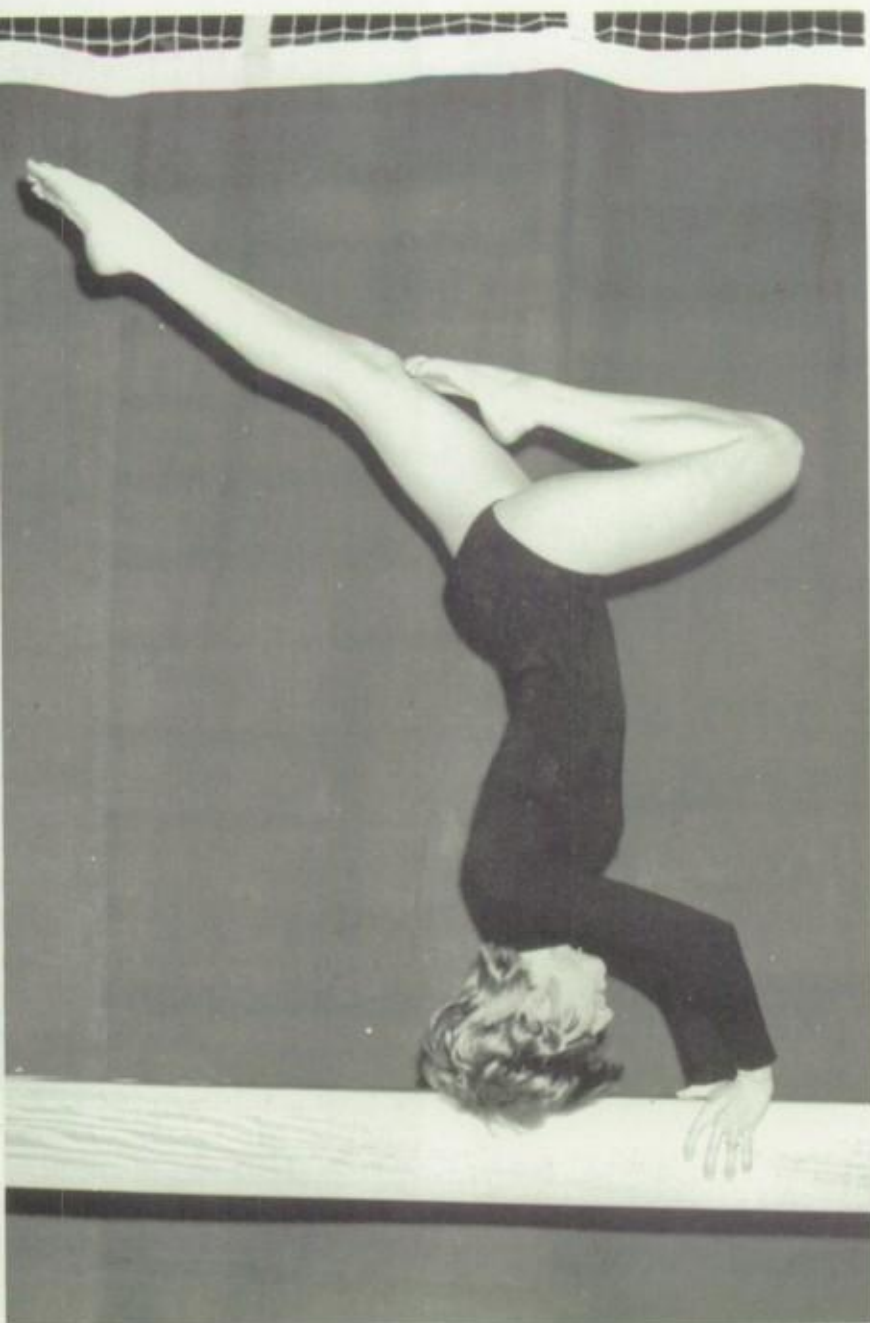

Judy Markell executes outstanding abilities on the uneven parallel bars.

Individual events

Gymnast Sally Shanklin demonstrates skills of poise and equilibrium.

Nancy Urban's agile prowess on the vaulting horse makes her a hard competitor in gymnastic events.

Graceful ingenuity in gymnastics enables Barb Bartley to perform the butterfly with co-ordination and precision during a free exercise routine.

through skill and spirit

Under the guidance of Coach Carol Forman, the girls varsity basketball team completed another successful season. Although the team's average height was only 5'2", the girls made up for their lack of height with spirit and driving determination. Strong defensive members aided the development of the team, when the Dragonettes came against opponents such as Middletown, who's average height was 5'10".

Reserves completed their season with a 2-6 record. Victories were made over Miamisburg and Jefferson.

Training for healthier world begins in FMC

Sue Saunders demonstrates wrapping a wound on model Sharon Thunn.

Acquainting its members with the many different phases of medicine and medical careers is the main purpose of West's Future Medical Career's Club. Throughout the year members participate in various service projects. Christmas season finds each member bringing a gift to the annual Christmas party for the children at Barney Children's Hospital. Guest speakers such as Karen Cruze, former Fairmont student, and nursing staff from Kettering Memorial Hospital relate their experiences in the field of medicine at the monthly meetings. Participating in various service projects gives members a chance to earn their FMC pin.

Following all recipes toward the production of another delicious dinner are Home Economics Club officers: Linda Lennon, Publicity; Shari Lovelace, Secretary; Margie Leeson, Treasurer; Carol Kallas, Chaplain; Nancy McCabe, Vice-President; and Patricia Ballard, President.

Preparing for future responsibilities is the dominant goal of Home Economics Club. Through concentration and practice, members learn the best and most time-saving methods of running a modern home.

Enlightening speakers spark interest at monthly meetings. Lecturing on subjects such as child development, careers in home economics, hair styling, and flower arranging, they give insight into the roles of homemaking in today's modern world. Prior to Christmas holidays, members hosted a gift-wrapping session. After directions, the girls engrossed themselves in cutting paper and tying bows. Creativity and originality brought forth many beautiful and decorative packages.

Putting the finishing touches on packages, members conclude demonstration.

Business leaders bring future in focus

After winning the Wilbur Wright game, music by the powerful Penetrations successfully completes the evening for students attending the F.B.L.A. dance.

Finding positions in the fast-paced world of business, functions as a major force in Future Business Leaders of America.

Earning a minimum of fifteen points through money-making projects entitles business students to membership in this organization.

Highlighting the year's activities are conventions at state and national levels. Candidates and contestants strive to attain their goals in various competitions.

Sponsoring an after-game dance, Dress-Right Week, and selling candy bars constitute a few of the club's numerous activities. Despite dismal weather, mum corsages created by F.B.L.A. members, beautified Homecoming.

Continually confronted with pursuing paths to meet their individual goals are Future Business Leaders officers Kathy Kingston, Reporter; Marty Deeter, President; Beth Nolan, Vice-President; Connie Loop, Secretary; and Kathy Hartmeier, Treasurer.

Cooperation is a basic fundamental of any occupation say Miss Ruth Busseer, Sally Shafor, Kathy Hartmeier, and Joyce Wheeler.

Sixteen senior girls comprise the Cooperative Office Education program, better known as C.O.E. On-the-job training and work experience combined with school study are the basic purposes of this course.

Obtaining interviews with prospective employers affords opportunities for various part-time employment.

Requirements for C.O.E. emphasize typing, shorthand, and clerical skills. Participants in the program constantly gain business acumen which will greatly assist them in furthering their careers.

Mr. Joe Lower coordinates the work-study program at the local level.

Operating the switchboard proves challenging to Wanda Sparks, after a thorough explanation from Fairmont West secretary, Mrs. Charlotte Robinson.

Future Teachers foster faculty rapport

Through posters and other media the membership in Future Teachers has grown to be one of Fairmont West's most enthusiastic clubs agree club officers: Marcia MacCagno, Corresponding Secretary; Jane Biddle, Vice President; Pat Deck, Secretary; Karen Fitzwater, President; Judy Gardner, Historian; and Terry Hively, Treasurer.

Future Teachers is the largest pre-professional organization at Fairmont West. Interesting and informative speakers from the different academic areas present talks and lead discussions on the requirements of teaching in their chosen fields.

College Beckons Night, sponsored each year in connection with the Parent-Teacher Association furnishes college bound seniors a chance to learn more about the curricular programs of the various colleges in which they are interested.

During the month of May, one entire school day is provided for the senior F.T.A. members to teach a chosen subject at any one of Kettering's fine public schools. Many of the members participate in county workshops and state conferences which instruct them in the modern advancements of teaching.

In conjunction with National Education week in November, members of F.T.A. decorated central unit's show case and delivered home-made brownies to the entire West faculty. Adviser, Miss Mary Belle Warren assists the officers in presenting a variety of programs for the monthly meetings.

Kathy Day, Barb Essenpreis, and Nancy Brumfiel discuss new techniques in first aid to be presented at future Red Cross meetings.

Junior Red Cross is one of Fairmont West's most service-minded organizations. Active members find satisfaction and encounter many rewarding experiences through the various charity projects the club sponsors throughout the year.

Decorating for a Christmas Party for children whose fathers are in the armed forces serving away from home, and making Stationery Kits for children around the world who were victims of disaster, are among the organization's projects.

Officers of Junior Red Cross are Marilyn Hunsaker, President; Nancy Brumfiel, Vice-President; Barb Essenpreis, Treasurer; Kathy Day, Secretary.

Phyllis Price and Jan Schuerholz leaf through the American Red Cross Journal searching for service projects to better the Kettering community.

Y-Teen service supports Korean girls

Debby McMillan extends the opportunity of purchasing potato chips, as well as helping the Y-Teens, to all hungry Fairmont West students.

Y-Teen Officers: Debby McMillan, Inter-Club Council Representative; Kathy Channel, President; and Amelia Himes, Secretary; discuss the events of a recent monthly meeting.

Fun, service, and fellowship mark the goal of Fairmont West's Y-Teens.

Each year the girls sell potato chips to help finance their projects, which are both local and international. Currently they are joining with other Y-Teens in the area to support a Korean girl. Numerous other occasions arise during the year providing the group with the opportunity to aid underprivileged children in the community.

Caroling at Christmas, a shipwreck party, and an annual slumber party at the YMCA emphasize friendship as a vital part of the club.

Youth for Christ officers: Ken Nunn, Floyd Elmore, Bonnie Eifort, Jaime Williams, Penny Puls, and Gerda Holmstrom find there are many things for which one should be thankful.

Providing inter-denominational fellowship opportunities for Christian youth is the basic purpose of Youth for Christ.

Bi-weekly meetings include speakers, discussion groups, films, music, skits, and parties. Members meet other Youth for Christ members from the area and country by participating in national conventions, service projects, speech and music contests, Bible quizzing, and rallies.

Students involved in the Youth for Christ program find the individual is provided with the occasion to develop leadership abilities and a proper mental, physical, social and moral balance.

Two active seniors, Sharon Hensley and Sandy Finley, agree it is most rewarding to find time in one's busy schedule for daily Bible study.

Theta Hi-Y continues as a reputable service club by decorating the Central Unit light court with a exhibit highlighted by two live turkeys. Among other projects are distributing literature for the hospital levy and collecting for United Appeal.

Annual activities incorporate the Youth in Government program in Columbus, representing a high point in the Hi-Y year; induction ceremonies, signifying a challenge to new members; and the donation to YMCA World Service, setting an all-time high.

To round off a program of important activities regular meetings are held with guest speakers participating.

Ed Kalat, Treasurer; Woody Kiefaber, Secretary; Steve Nelson, Vice-President; Mike Rayburn, Chaplain; and Les Ferguson, President; inspect Theta Hi-Y greeting.

Displaying an official Dragon banner, officers of West's Pep Club Rickie Gaffney, President; Bill Lennon, Sergeant-at-Arms; Mary Lovingood, Secretary; and Judy Stewart, Treasurer; look forward to some of their future ideas and projects.

Establishing and maintaining West's 110% spirit occupies Pep Club's full attention. To achieve this high standard, the 1965-66 Pep Club inspires its members to many successful projects. Innovations include "Dragon" banners in traditional purple and white. Students and faculty sport sticky-top pep buttons, sold by the club, each Friday.

Participation in caravans to major games crystallizes spirit at Fairmont West. Pep Club offers prizes for the best decorated cars.

Cheering the unit lobbies contributes greatly to the enthusiasm of the student body.

Concluding the fall sport's season, the club sponsored a dance to honor the participating athletes.

Student Council warms soldiers' Christmas

Student Council member Brad Ridenour registers approval as he and Barb Essenpreis contribute to the collection for soldiers in Vietnam.

Responsibility is the keynote of Student Council activities, as shown by the successful projects which the council has adopted.

Pictures of Queen candidates adorn lobbies of each unit during Homecoming week. West's gym floor boasts new purple foul lines and a purple and white dragon emblem. Reminding students of coming events is the decorative activity board in the cafeteria. U.S. soldiers in Vietnam will long remember the council's efforts in the collection of candy, gum, magazines, and books to brighten their Christmas away from home.

Annual projects include United Appeals Drive, joint council meeting with Fairmont East, and posting of current news items on the publicity board concerning West students, alumni, and faculty.

Mr. Louis Zaremski, adviser, agrees that this varied program provides an enriching experience for council members.

Student Council Officers: Lynn Girton, Vice President; Bob Viets, President; Tom Madliger, Treasurer; and Nancie Fisher, Secretary find council activities at Fairmont West rewarding.

Members of ICC, Tom Stork, Don Smith, Dave Ruth, and Les Ferguson discuss the problems presented to the council.

Programming by ICC co-ordinates events

Composed of the presidents of all organized clubs at Fairmont West, the Inter-Club Council meets once every month. Assistant Principal, Mr. Paul Wagner, serves as its adviser with the vice-president of Student Council acting as chairman.

Functions of the ICC entail: serving as a means for scheduling club activities; promoting better understanding among the various groups; availing each organization of the opportunity to benefit from the successes and failures of other organizational projects; and providing a means by which participants may develop enthusiasm and support for any school-wide projects.

Members of this year's council have worked to produce effective results in the co-ordination of all events at West.

Looking over the calendar of events, Lynn Girton, chairman of ICC, and Mr. Paul Wagner, adviser, find that scheduling club functions demands much time and patience.

French Club conveys conception of customs

Inspired by a colorful map of France, Carolyn Clifford, Vice-President; Anders Milton, Treasurer; Patty Kirk, President; and Nancy Lynn, Secretary; discuss future meetings.

Through its activities, based on those in native France, the Fairmont West French Club hopes to promote an understanding of the moeurs (customs) of the country, and of the people themselves.

Members obtain this knowledge of the French man's routine through a Christmas program, including interesting Skits; a film, "The Vagabond King"; a Mardi Gras carnival; and a picnic where appetizing French food is served to hungry savants.

Meetings include native speakers and a surprise program on the subject of French music to add to the enjoyable year.

Fairmont West German Club invites German Clubs from neighboring schools for a folksinging festival held at West German Club's festival, at which German songs are sung, represents a new activity, and the club hopes to continue it in the future.

German Club also has several other interesting and fun-filled activities including the annual Christmas party and spring picnic. Activities such as these prove to be rewarding experiences with fellow students who are also interested in the German language.

Students who attend these meetings gain understanding of the social customs, the music, and the foods of Germany.

Enriching their broad knowledge of German customs and cultures are Fairmont West officers Carol Fiedler, Treasurer; Linda Williams, Vice-President; Jim Barnes, President; Karen Amand, Secretary and Marty Appleton, Social Chairman.

Having considered the many places reviewed in German Club, Sally Egger points to her favorite spot.

Translating Latin stories means fun as well as learning agree Lynne Davis, Leslie Nabel, Chris Hayes, and Sue Saunders.

Striving to improve meetings are officers: Nancy Brumfiel, President; James Kiel Vice-President; Carol Fiedler, Secretary; and Karen Fitzwater, Treasurer.

"Veni, vidi, vici" brings familiar memories to all Latin students. Through Latin Club, members have an opportunity to enrich their skills while combining them with pleasure.

Dramatizing skits of Greek and Roman mythology give vivid insight to history. Games, mixers, and other techniques serve to acquaint members with ancient culture.

Designing togas for the annual banquet stimulates creative interest and originality. Keeping with tradition, the banquet includes foods prepared in Roman culinary style.

Cuban creates interest in customs, cultures

Dominating the goals of Spanish Club are opportunities aiding members in gaining a more thorough understanding of various customs, cultures, and traditions of Spanish-speaking peoples.

Members place emphasis on conversation with attempts at becoming proficient in the language.

Throughout the year, officers plan programs which give insight to many Latin-American countries, as well as Spain. Informative speakers show slides depicting scenes of Spanish people and countryside. Securing Mr. Warren Chambers, a high-Cuban congressman as a speaker, greatly enhanced the year's activities.

Functions include the annual Christmas party, complete with festive pinata. Participating in the Ice-Carnival provided fun and frolic as well as creativity for the members. During exam week, advanced students review beginning and intermediate ones for semester exams.

Bolivia offers many varied topics for an interesting and educational discussion agree Spanish Club officers Steve Miller, Treasurer; Pam Rogero, President; and Karen Kalbfleisch, Secretary.

Reviewing verb conjugations for final exams are West Spanish students Jan Schmalenberger, Patty Weimer, Bev Riner, Pat Rogero.

Magic of numbers motivates mathematicians

Intriguing puzzles add mystery to Math Club meetings agree Dick Wittman, Dee Hudson, and John Hames as they solve the problem.

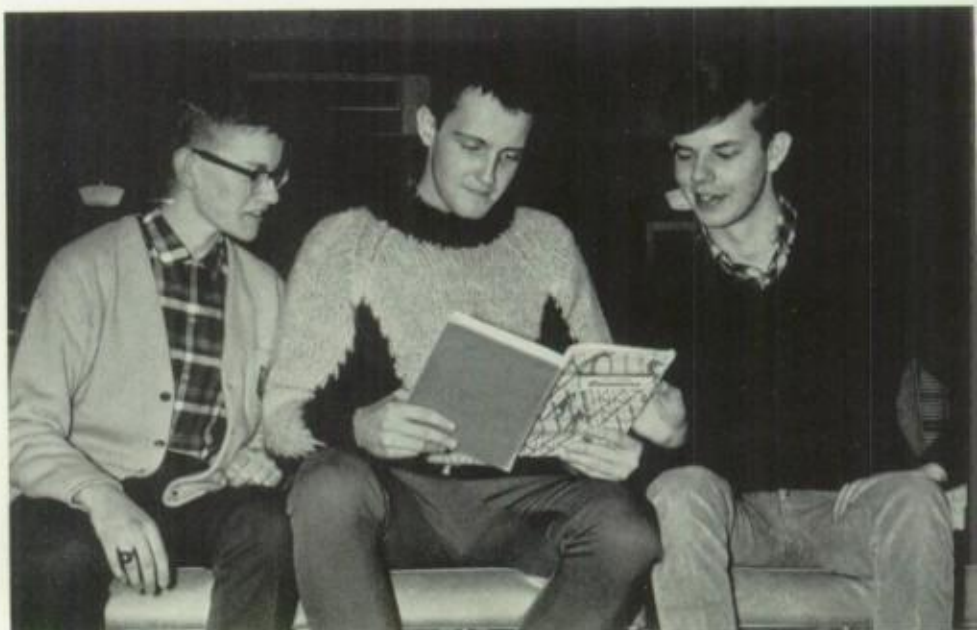

For those students who desire to pursue a career in the broad field of mathematics, Math Club is the answer. Through this club they satisfy their quest for advanced knowledge of fractions, equations, and formulas.

Interesting discussions lead to obscure facts in math. Subjects such as topology, spacial geometry, and universal sets serve as current topics.

Meetings combine both fun and learning, as members seek to discover new math mysteries and puzzles for the club to solve.

Highlighting the activities was the Christmas party where members gathered to celebrate the holidays.

Brushing up on geometry theorems keeps Math Club officers: Dave Shultheis, Vice-President; Dave Ruth, President; and Joe Forgy, Program Chairman busy.

Science Club officers: George Taylor, Vice-President; Myron O'Hara, Secretary-Treasurer; and Tom Stork, President, examine laboratory equipment to be used in an experiment.

Learning through experimentation and research is the aim of the Science Club's activities. Adventures into the vast wonderland of science draw club members toward an understanding of the significance of scientific methods in everyday life.

Members this year have attempted to coordinate special areas of interest and the outlines of basic experimentation to explore the nature of the requirements of life on other planets. By varying atmospheric conditions and noting the effects of the changes upon the plants, members put to use their proficiencies in biology, chemistry, and physics.

Under the guidance of the Science Club advisers, Mr. Milburn Hines and Mr. Elby Tackett, science enthusiasts find satisfaction from hours spent in probing for knowledge and understanding.

Becky Tyler and Dana Weaver, like all Science Club members, know the importance of safety glasses to a successful experiment.

Speakers interest Political Science Club

Steve Nelson enriches his knowledge of current affairs.

Political Science Club invites speakers from many groups with many different political philosophies in order that they may gain an understanding of the beliefs which exist in America today.

In striving for this knowledge, they obtain opinions from interesting groups of both the conservative and liberal schools of thought, including such radical organizations as the Ku Klux Klan, the John Birch Society, and the NAACP.

It is the belief of the club that the opportunity to hear such ideas strengthens the members' support of freedom and democracy.

Preparing for the next Political Science meeting, Vice-President Chuck Higgins, President Dave Graham, and Secretary-Treasurer Scott Heywood find facilities in the East Unit activity room very helpful and informal.

W.O.L. new goal for Chess and Bridge

Fairmont West's Chess and Bridge Club provides a stimulating atmosphere in which its adherents engage in friendly informal competition. Members of this distinguished group find enjoyment and pleasure in matching wits and wisdom in both of these games of concentration.

Frequently, several of the more experienced players deliver brief discussions on strategy and winning techniques. Such inspirational discussions, which are usually a part of the Chess and Bridge Club meetings, initiate more interest and enthusiasm within the group.

Annually, through intra-club challenges, the club selects its five most skillful chess players to represent West in the newly-organized W.O.L. chess league. Representing West are Doug Leonard, Jim Edwards, Joe Fiedler, Greg Loose, and Bill Hunsaker.

Mr. Lee Risley advises the group for his first time.

Officers, Doug Leonard and Martin Holsinger find themselves absorbed in a thought-provoking game of chess.

West writers encourage creative expression

Martin Holsinger, President; Denny Herron, Vice-President; receive approval for original composition from mannequin in Mr. Vogler's room.

Composing Creative Writers' Club are students interested in examining and studying good written English, practicing writing skills for self-improvement and mutual criticism, and developing their abilities of perceptive observation and creative awareness.

During the meetings, held twice a month, members are inspired by other members' work and are often motivated toward a new style of writing. By submitting original work for constructive criticism, members improve their writing ability.

Mr. Stephen Vogler advises the club for his first time.

"Creativity, an essential part in written expression, requires much concentration," concludes sophomore Sue Stork.

Marc Connelly, Doug Monschke, and Nancy Gilbert find much pleasure in discussing some of the many diversified works of our great English authors.

Complete knowledge of the structural differential is important in tracing abstraction explains Mr. Stephen Vogler to Wise Fools officers Doug Hinkley, President; and Carol James, Secretary.

Analyzing such literary works as Brave New World and Aristotle, the members of Wise Fools find much pleasure in the interpretations and enlightenment gleaned from other students interested in similar stimulating discussions.

Enjoying interesting panel discussions and question and answer sessions lead by president Doug Hinkley, these members are totally self-sufficient in their program planning.

Meetings also offer opportunity for these students to discuss their sentiments about pertinent religious or philosophical questions.

Literary discussions stimulate Wise Fools

Club members Jim Utzinger, Mr. Wayne Wills, Ned Treat, Mike Brubaker, and Bryan Haverstick become more proficient by working with various electronic devices at meetings.

Radio-Electronics encourages shop learning

President, Jim Utzinger finds that circuit-tracing a television set is an easy task for one with electronic training.

Radio-Electronics has contributed much to the development of radio technology at West. Though the club has few members, they find that its size enables them to function on a more personalized basis.

Among the various projects of the club was the building of an audio-amplifier which was donated to the school. Only through the hard work and careful planning of interested members, was this project able to be completed. Under the direction of Mr. Wayne Wills, the club has been beneficial to not only its members, but to the school as well.

As an aid to their future vocations, Bryan Haverstick and Ned Treat learn to service a radio, under the competent supervision of club adviser Mr. Wayne Wills.

Enjoying a conversation before the meeting are officers: Dave Laughter, Secretary; Rick Hipple, President; and Ted Williams, Vice-President.

Swing Club, in its second year, is open to all students wishing to develop their cultural interests in the musical field. At meetings members enjoy classical compositions by such great band leaders as Glenn Miller, Les Brown, and the Dorseys.

As the club's adviser, Mr. Wesley Haines demonstrates and discusses many of the techniques utilized by professionals in this particular field of entertainment. Students who have particular interests in music find the club most beneficial.

Recalling great "swing" tunes are Martin Holsinger and Doug Ashmun.

Striking sounds "swing" across West campus

Music-minded Swing Club members are Ted Williams, Brenda Collins, Rick Hipple, Pam Thompson, and Doug Ashmun.

Front Row: Carol James, Jane Biddle, Laurie Connell, Miss Margaret Rooney, Sandy Grice, Denny Herron

Classical Music Club — key to culture

Studying the works of the great classical musicians as well as their colorful and sometimes tragic lives is the foremost purpose of West's Classical Music Club. Informative speakers versed in the field of music give talks and lead discussions on the masterpieces of Chopin, Bach, and Beethoven. On December 16 members give a party in honor of Beethoven's birthday.

Laurie Connell, Vice President and Carol James, Secretary, listen as Denny Herron, President, plays "Symphony Number 3" by Ludwig Von Beethoven.

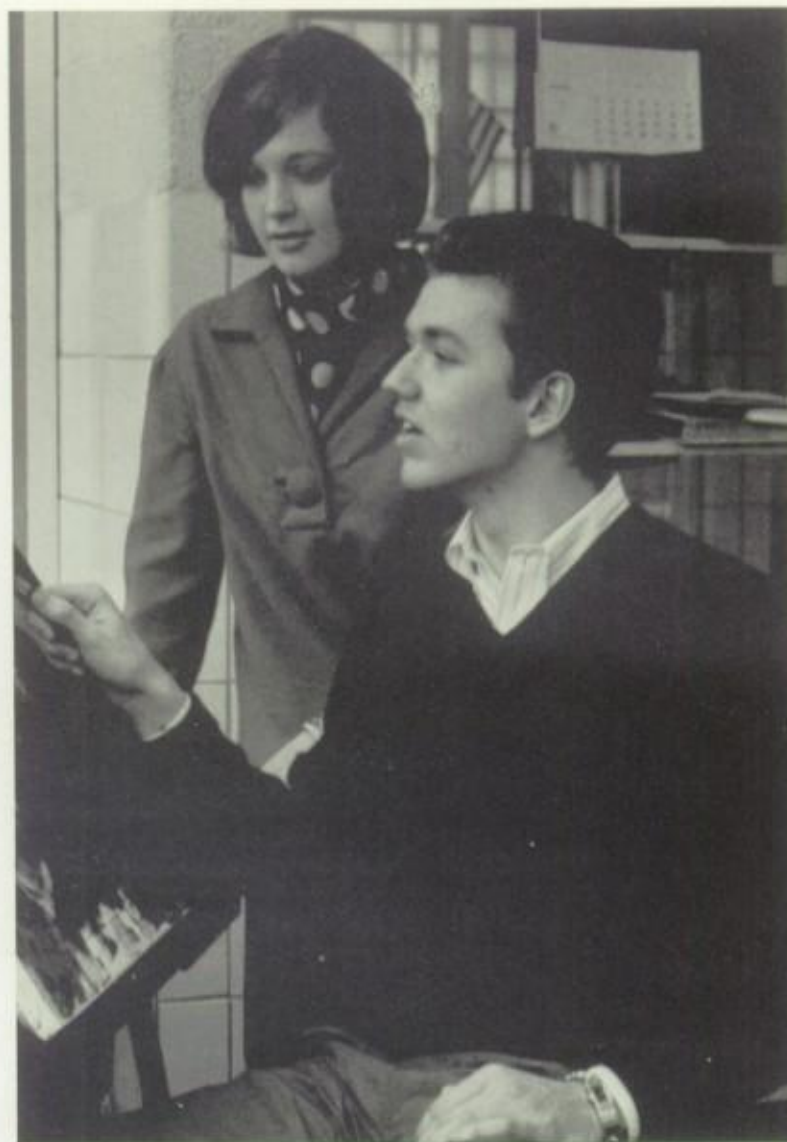

Jon Ely and Denny Herron discuss life of John Sebastian Bach during meeting of Classical Music Club.

Committee members Linda Hedden, Tom Stork, Kay Mouck, Gloria Morningstar, and Mary Ann Kowaski discuss points of Linda's recent painting of a court jester.

Marcia Rickard listens intently as Dennis Kyte describes in detail his painting of a melancholy, old woman.

West's Art Club introduces "ice carnival"

Renovation marks West's Art Club for '66. Replacing the usual club officers is a committee of five interested art students.

Meetings range from discussions with past graduates, now studying art, to visiting the Cincinnati Art Exhibition.

Harvest time finds Art Club members decoratively soaping windows in the Town and Country Art Contest.

Below freezing January temperatures allows the Art Club to sponsor an ice carving contest open to all school sponsored organizations. Three-hundred pound blocks of ice take on new form and expressions in the West quadrangle.

During the Spring club members have the chance to further their talents and to profit from them by creating art work for a sale and showing.

Highlighting the year is painter-sculptor Bing Davis who exhibits and leads discussions on his many works of art including painting, ceramics, and pottery.

AFS sponsors student exchange program

American Field Service, a new organization at Fairmont West, affords opportunities to meet foreign exchange students and to stimulate interest in the program.

Early in the fall, students warmly welcomed Anders Milton, Fairmont West's foreign exchange student from Sweden, at the reception held in his honor. Given by the club and Mr. Paul Wagner, its adviser, the event served to acquaint Anders with his new school.

AFS Day found several exchange students from the area spending the day at Fairmont West and participating in an interesting and informative assembly.

Highlighting the year's activities was an interesting German movie depicting life in that country. Adding entertainment to the agenda, the club sponsored an after-game dance.

AFS officers Barb Thomas and Don Smith review schedule for group activity.

JCOWA generates international enthusiasm

One of the largest organizations on campus, Fairmont West's chapter of the Junior Council on World Affairs promotes a more complete knowledge of world affairs.

In addition to the monthly meetings, JCOWA sponsors a Mock General Assembly, a high school institute, and a spring study tour. During United Nations week in October, the group focused their attention on activities commemorating the founding of the U.N.

Highlight of the year was a hootenanny earning $200 for the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

JCOWA officers: Melanie Weeks, Historian; Marcia Rickard, Secretary; Bill Lamme, Vice President; Patti Kirk, Point Secretary; Chris Roof, Treasurer; discuss Africa, a crucial trouble spot for problems involving world affairs.

Bill Wilson, Les Murray, Gene Baker, Mike Coleman, Earl Phillips, Ron Zaremski, Don Harlow, Tom Madliger, Joe Fiedler.

Versatile letter-men symbolize Varsity "F"

Viewing hard-earned trophies are officers Tom Madliger, President; Joe Fiedler, Vice-President; Mark Shoemaker, Secretary; and Ronnie Zaremski, Treasurer.

Top athletes in interscholastic sports attain membership in Fairmont West's Varsity "F" Club. Earning a letter through participation in at least one-half of a season is the major requirement.

Throughout the year, Varsity "F" members take an active part in all school functions. Selling programs at basketball games remains a large money-making project of the club. In the fall members also sell key chains boasting a fighting Dragon. New endeavors this year are the fluorescent bumper stickers proudly displaying "Fairmont West High School."

Hosting a dance after the Colonel White basketball game, helped to cheer the spirits of the student body.

Each spring the club members elect the student whom they think has contributed the most outstanding efforts in aiding the sports activities at West. Receiving a letter and an award, this person deserves much credit and honor.

Both intramural and interscholastic girls' sports fall under the direction of the Girls' Athletic Association. Fairmont West offers all areas of sports to girls: field hockey, volleyball, gymnastics, basketball, tennis, softball, bowling, archery, fencing, badminton, table tennis, and track.

GAA members accumulate points as they participate in the various athletic activities and letters, pins, medals, and trophies are awarded to those gathering specified numbers of points.

Functions of this organization are not limited to athletics, however. Social activities include a Christmas party, an annual dance, and an end-of-the-year excursion to Coney Island.

Adviser, Miss Carol Forman, organizes club functions and keeps point records up to date.

GAA board members: Martha Apple, Judy Stewart, Linda Howe, Judy Stautenbach, and Karen Reed admire awards symbolizing GAA achievement.

As Shirley Girardot masters the high jump, waiting contestants show their enthusiasm for intramural track events.

West's NFL — leading chapter in WOL

Consisting of one hundred three members, Fairmont West's League has been for many years the leading chapter in western Ohio. Membership requiring twenty-five points may be earned in service speaking before adult groups and in Saturday competition.

Individual contestants compete in interpretations humorous, dramatic, and oratorical; in original oratory, and extemporaneous.

Bill Lamme, Secretary; Dick Wittman, Treasurer; Doug Hinkley, Vice-President, and Bill Nelson, President, agree that NFL cultivates future leaders.

National Thespian Society advances dramatics

Membership in Fairmont West's National Thespian Society is open to juniors and seniors who have accumulated ten points by participation in various areas of dramatic productions including lighting, make-up, stage-craft, and direction, as well as work done in the glow of the footlights.

Under the well-guided sponsorship of Miss Leah Funk and Mr. Joseph Kuldau, the National Thespian Society strives to cultivate excellence and interest in the dramatic arts.

Bill Nelson, Brad Ridenour, and Jan Schuerholz discover that long hours of play practice and devotion to work bring lasting rewards.

Torch and Keystone marks highest honor

Barbara Essenpreis joyfully accepts, as active member, Nancie Fisher, "taps" her for membership in the National Honor Society.

Torch and Keystone designates Fairmont West's chapter of National Honor Society. Faculty chooses members of the organization in conformity with rules established by the National Association of Secondary School Principals. Basing eligibility on excellence in scholarship, leadership, service and character, membership to this esteemed group is quite an honor.

Torch and Keystone members remain active throughout the year with numerous and wide-spread projects. Appearing on WLW-TV's "Teen Scene" presented a challenge in which West finished victoriously. Highlighting the activities are the Christmas party and the annual picnic held each spring.

Enjoying a welcome moment of friendly discussion between studies are Torch and Keystone officers, Ed Kalat, Treasurer; Lynn Girton, Secretary; Joe Fiedler, Vice-President; and Bill Lamme, President.

Recognizing individual effort and outstanding performance in the field of journalism, West's publications boast ten students who are members in Quill and Scroll. To be eligible, the student must be in the upper one-third of his class, and have done distinctive work in some phase of high school journalism.

Ranking with other honored journalists, local members have excelled in the editorial, literary, business, and art departments of the Dragon and the Dragon Tales. West's chapter now follows the procedure of nominating juniors as well as seniors for membership.

Quill and Scroll encourages and rewards individual achievement in journalism and allied fields by offering grants-in-aid and scholarships for students who intend to pursue journalism as their vocation.

Janie Wiesman and Kathy Stone prepare invitations to be sent out to those students who are eligible for Quill and Scroll.

Second year members, Beth Nolan and Barb Essenpreis, add final touches to the table decorations for the annual Quill and Scroll induction dinner.

Quill and Scroll rewards journalistic efforts

Members of Quill and Scroll are Kathy Stone, Gloria Morningstar, Janie Wiesman, Beth Nolan, Barbara Essenpreis, Judy Blome, and Mary Green.

Junior Prom magazine, student directories

Comparing notes and deciding on the appropriate copy are Sharon Moore, Bobbie Probst, Pam Little, and Dan Spahr.

Editing a school paper is a great responsibility for all those involved. Playing a major role, it is the main link between students and current news items.

Published bi-monthly Dragon Tales keeps students up-to-date on club activities, academic honors, and athletic events. Conducting interesting opinion polls reveals many humorous facts about people on West's campus. Articles such as Spirogyra add variety to the paper. Informative lead stories relate important events in detail. Letters to the Editor provide the greatly needed opportunity for students to air their ideas and opinions.

Producing a fine paper takes time as well as money. Fourth period finds all staff members working diligently to meet deadlines. Selling advertisements offers the perfect chance to gain money for staff expenses.

Student teacher, Mrs. Joan Blackledge watches approvingly as Mrs. Joyce Gerber checks lists of advertisements.

complete sales campaign for newspaper staff

Heads bent, Jill Munton, Holli Knight, Karen Valiquette, and Tim Roach constantly work to meet their deadlines.

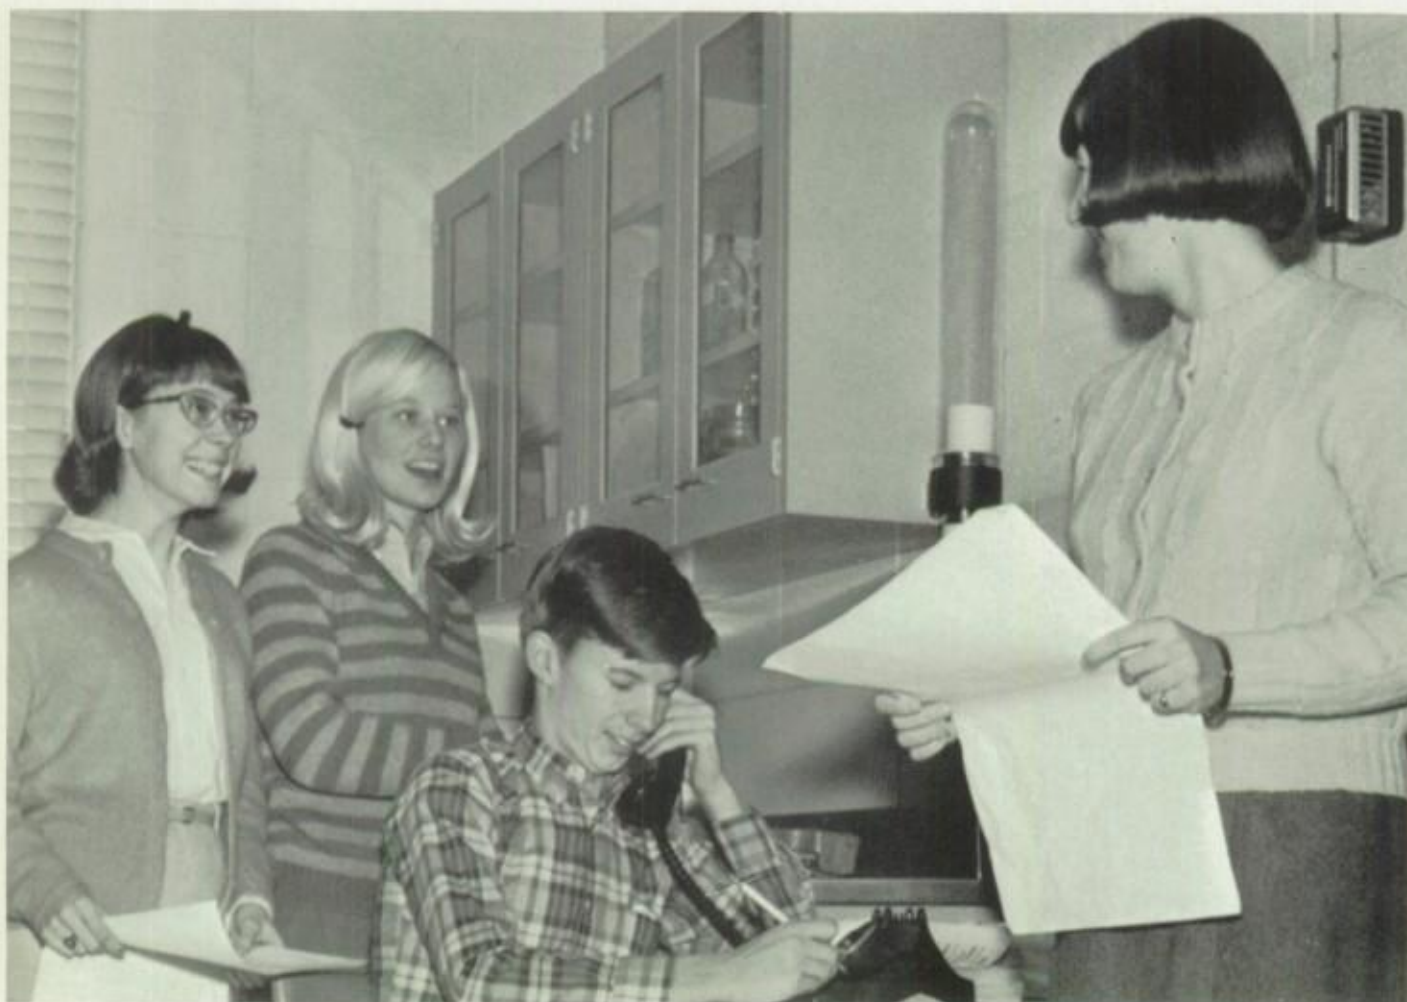

Craig Caywood and Doug Hinkley assist editorial editor, Jim Beebe, in writing articles interesting to the entire student circulation.

Kathy Dixon, Diane Dolfman and Barb Quick scan newspapers for new feature concepts to gain new readers for "Dragon Tales."

Dragon Tales wins first place trophy for

Page editors: Pat Essenpreis, Mary Green, Bill Wick, and Jill Bloomer realize the telephone is indispensable item in keeping West's staff running smoothly.

Workers of sundry talents fill the positions in both the editorial and advertising staffs. Latest information on academic honors, club news or athletic events, vividly reflect life on West's campus.

Dragon Tales sponsored a safety contest, an after-game dance, and two assemblies. Former Dayton radio air scout, Russ Guerra, proved to be an excellent speaker, captivating both student body and faculty. Other newspaper projects are the production of student directories and distribution of city-wide Junior Prom magazine.

promoting safety in greater Dayton area

Patty Kirk admiringly approves sketches of the staff artists, Janie Weismann and Leslie Neff.

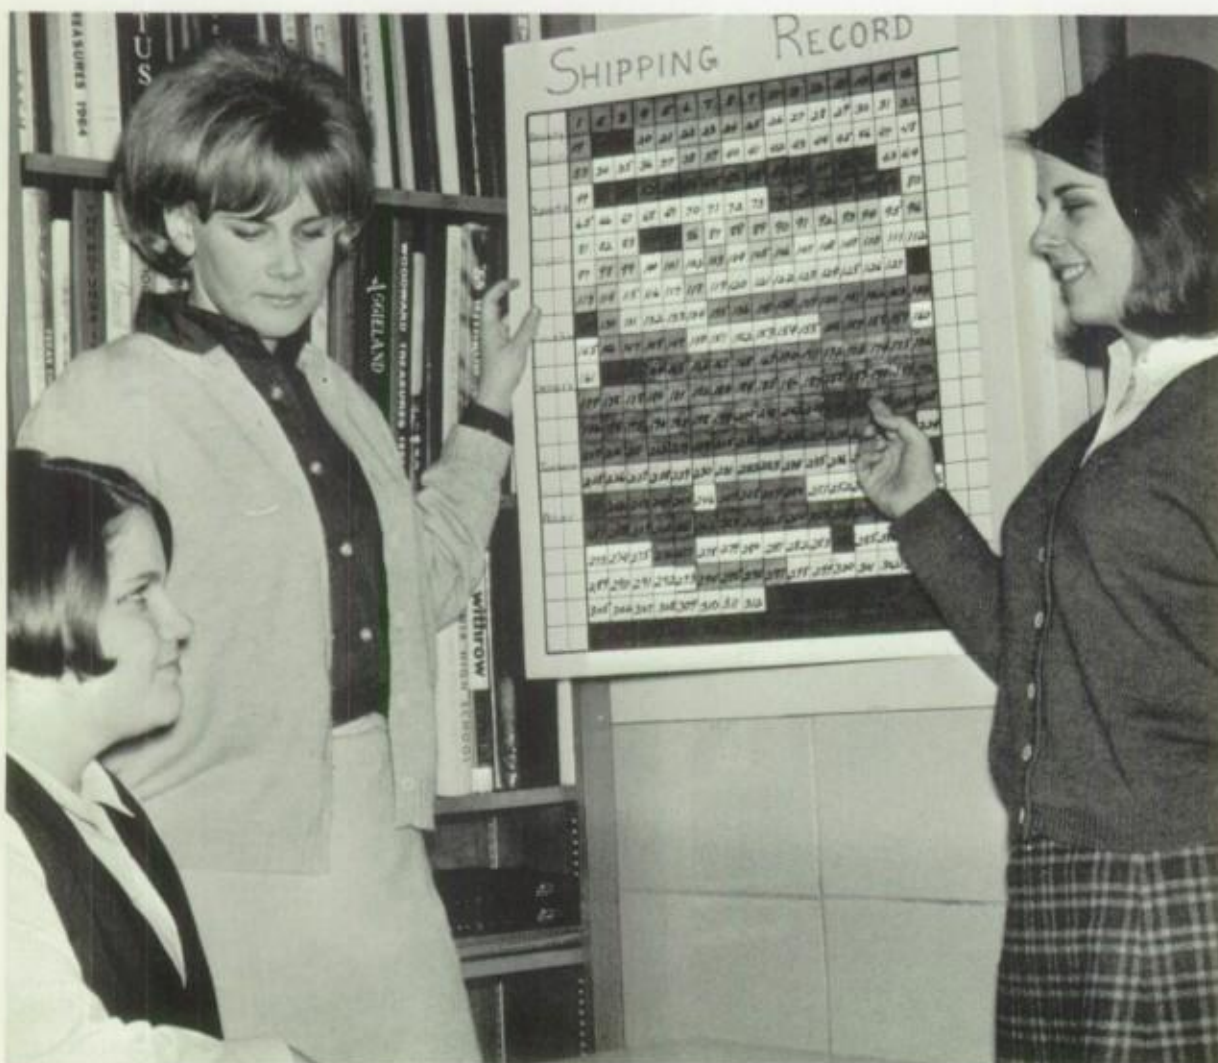

Beauty editor, Gloria Morningstar; and photo-indexer and scheduler, Cathy French; correlate ideas to assure a more smoothly run yearbook for Fairmont West.

Faculty and academics staff, Martin Holsinger, Sandy Finley, Sue Butcke, and Karen Ritchie find efficiency can only be achieved by working together as a team.

Time, talent, and tedious work produce pride

"Each colored block indicates another completed page," say elated business staff members Sharon Balderson, Linda Fox, and Carol Harlow.

"Over 600 families in the Kettering area contributed to the success of the Dragon by supporting the Parent Patron section," reads Beverly Riner to other business staff members: Barbara Law, Sue Maeder and business manager Judy Blome.

in accomplishment of award-winning Dragon

Photo-journalism in a school of 1600 students involves the patience, tact, and rapport of all of its 36 staff members. Months of hard work contribute to the production and success of the 1966 Dragon.

After a period of orientation, staff members began to plan layouts and to design the thumbnail dummy which was to serve as a guide for the year's activities.

Challenged by the "triple-crown" won by the 1965 yearbook (All-American, A+, and Medalist) the current staff worked diligently to compile a record which would be equally interesting and correct.

Aided by the members of Logan Studios, the students maintained a very tedious picture schedule.

Meeting early deadlines to Taylor Publishing Company enabled staff members to gain the colored-end sheets without extra cost.

Scheduling pictures, selling advertising, planning layouts, selling subscriptions, and getting factual information constitute but a few of the necessary tasks of the Dragon staff.

Sports editor Jim Twohig, flanked by assistants Terry Hively and Mark Shoemaker, discusses over-all team standings for West's competition in Western Ohio League.

Capitalizing on a successful $7000 advertising campaign made possible by the co-operation of merchants in the greater-Dayton area, staff members compile the 312-page record of the events of the school year.

Fairmont West's yearbook is virtually a pre-paid publication with funds being deposited for payment of the yearbook in September. Revenue from the dividends of this investment permits the staff more flexibility in the use of color and other features. Design of the yearbook is original with the work being done by the student staff and its adviser Mrs. Jane E. Nolan.

In addition to giving of himself, his talents, and his co-operation, each staff member must represent his school and its constituents with diplomacy.

Choosing pictures for activities provides a chance for fun, agree Barb Knipp, Linda Zaremski, and Nancy Balis.

Hard-working 1966 Dragon staff attains

Senior pictures pose minor problems for Sue Heinrich, Kathy Horstman, Jaci Jones, Barb Essenpreis, and Jaine Williams.

$7000 in yearbook advertising campaign

Acquiring the skills of the scale-o-graph provides invaluable experience for organizations staff Beth Nolan, Paul Gruner, Laurie Irvin, and Mary Ann Kowaski.

Reviewing several pages in the new "dummy" are advertising manager Martha Apple, Mrs. Jane Nolan, and Connie Eaton, editor.

At the heart of all school activities is the ACADEMIC program.
Fairmont West's broad curriculum enables each individual to mature and develop his talents in his own way.
Programs in mathematics,
natural and social sciences, and languages,
combined with courses
in the aesthetics and vocational interests, constitute the foundation from which West's students achieve such high scholastic standings.
Knowledge of a culture other than one's own is obtained through a foreign exchange student.
These courses and opportunities, in the hands of an extremely capable administration, offer students the opportunity to obtain the ultimate in high school education.

Doug Hinkley's comprehensive research rewards him with national recognition by the National Council of Teachers of English.

Semifinalists

Fairmont West's student body has demonstrated this year that it possesses not only spirit but also a high degree of intelligence. As Juniors, some 236 of the present graduating class took the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test; of this number, 27 had scores which were high enough to receive recognition. Eleven of these students were semifinalists; this represented a greater number than achieved by any other school in the area.

Senior Douglas Hinkley was a semifinalist in the annual test sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English, enabling him to be recommended for scholarships to every college in the United States. Further language honors were won by Bonnie Eifort, Nancy McCabe, Steven Miller, and Linda Snyder, who were finalists in the Prince of Peace competition in the Dayton-Kettering area. Bonnie Eifort won first place at the district Prince of Peace contest, which won for her a trip to Washington, D. C.

Senior Bill Lamme will spend two months in Turkey this summer as the winner of the Huffman Foundation Junior Ambassador award.

Receiving the highest score among local senior girls, Sharon Hanauer's test in the Betty Crocker Future Home-Maker Award contest enabled her to represent Fairmont West in the State competition for a $500 scholarship.

Bill Lamme's Selection Junior Ambassador

Bill Lamme's selection as Dayton area Junior Ambassador gave this well-known senior a trip to Turkey this Summer under the auspices of the Dayton Council on World Affairs. He was selected on the basis of superior scholarship, service and citizenship.

Lamme was not the only student to be honored for knowledge of his country; Lynn Girton was recognized by the Daughters of the American Revolution and Nancie Fisher received the La Sertoma citizenship award.

In an area "closer to home," three girls were selected as the school's top homemakers: Karen Childress and LaDonna Karns competed in the Dayton Power and Light Company competition; Sharon Hanauer was chosen through the Betty Crocker competitive test.

Honors awarded West's students in the second semester amply demonstrated their superiority both foreign and domestic matters.

Beth Nolan's original oration, "The Teen-Age Challenge" placed third in the Future Business Leaders of America state-speech competition.

Competing in a test and essay contest, Lynn Gorton won the local D.A.R. award.

Winner of LaSertoma Citizenship Award Central Unit senior, Nancie Fisher, realizes the importance of leadership qualities.

Superintendent and staff oversee functions

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Mehl and Mr. Chester Roush show impartiality as they watch their favorite teams Fairmont West and Fairmont East meet on the gridiron.

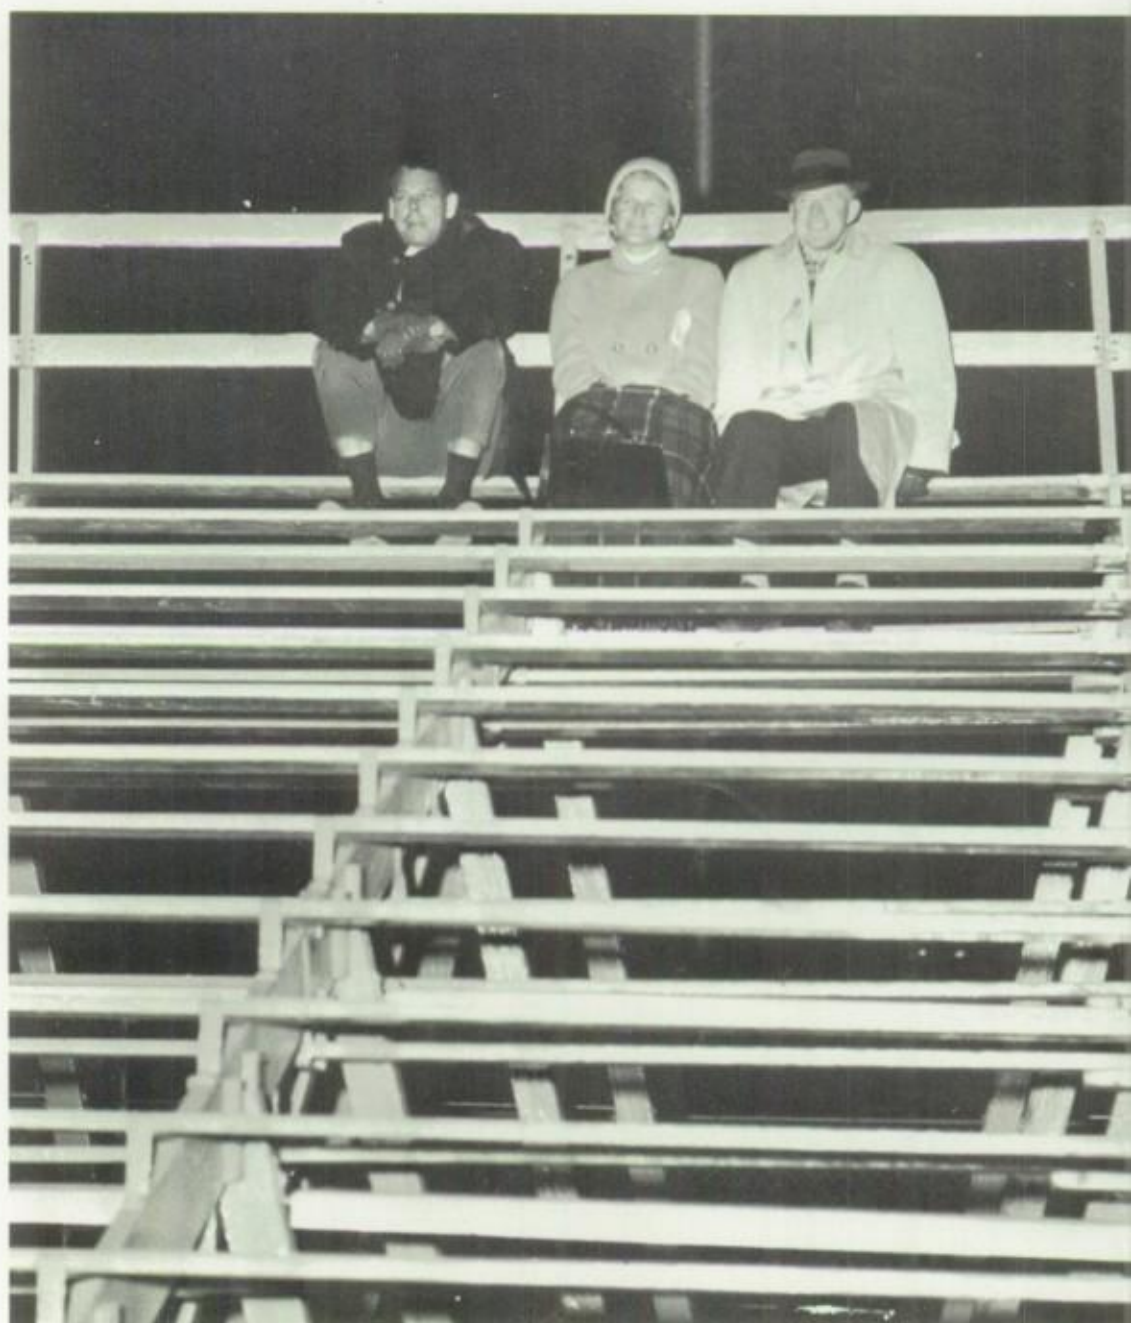

Mr. Chester A. Roush

Mr. Chester A. Roush, superintendent of the Kettering school system for the seventh year, is one of the most well-qualified administrators in the state of Ohio.

After receiving his Bachelor of Science in secondary education, Mr. Roush went on to the University of Wisconsin and there received his Master of Science. He then continued graduate work at Miami University and at Colorado State University.

He taught and coached at Fairmont and elsewhere before becoming superintendent. Mr. Roush is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, the National Honor Society.

For recreation Mr. Roush turns to sports, music, and books. He is very active in church and community affairs. Last year he was fortunate to be selected for a month-long tour of the Soviet Union which evaluated the methodology, content, and achievement of Soviet education.

of rapidly growing Kettering school system

Four men head the administrative staff of the Kettering school system. Responsibilities include such important duties as maintaining the best teachers, organizing student guidance programs, coordinating and directing teaching methods, and providing necessary facilities for learning.

Members of the Board of Education are elected by the citizens of Kettering to oversee the progress made by the school system and to solve any curricular problems which may arise. Retiring from the Board after twenty years of service is Mr. Robert Krebs.

Head of the guidance and counseling department, assistant principal Mr. Paul Wagner has a friendly smile which is a source of encouragement to students.

Capable principals guide students and faculty

Mr. Alfred Bolender, 1965 president of Kettering Kiwanis Club, agrees interest in civic affairs is important to both school and community.

Fairmont West is fortunate to have two such capable and dedicated administrators for its principals. Mr. Alfred Bolender and Mr. Paul Wagner are responsible for coordinating the activities of the school and also for maintaining its public relations. They are both active in community affairs and serve the school well as its representatives in the Kettering area.

Mr. Bolender, who recently served as president of the Kettering Kiwanis Club is assisted in his school responsibilities by Mr. Wagner, who takes charge of the guidance and testing programs, as well as serving as adviser to Torch and Keystone, West's chapter of the National Honor Society.

Friendly attitudes toward the students and true dedication in their capacities help our principals to "make West the best."

Mr. Charles Ramey and John Yates discuss importance of future education.

Nancy Porter, student secretary, aids unit supervisor, Mr. Richard Sultzbach, in the serious business of operating the West unit.

along scholastic lines

CHARLES RAMEY, East Unit Supervisor—Univ. of Cincinnati, B.S.; Univ. of Kentucky; Miami Univ., M.S.

JAMES ROBINSON, Central Unit Supervisor—Eastern Kentucky State College, B.S.; Univ. of Kentucky, M.A.; Miami Univ.

RICHARD SULTZBACH, West Unit Supervisor—Wittenberg Univ., A.B.; Univ. of Michigan, M.A.; Ohio State Univ.; Wright State Univ.

Dave Graham, Scott Heywood, and Mr. James Robinson decide to rearrange schedules to assure more comprehensive selection.

Fairmont West, because of its campus-style construction, is divided into three academic units. Students assigned to each unit remain in the building for home room period and for academic subjects. Unit offices maintain records for convenience.

Division of the school into units necessitates unit supervisors to oversee the administration of the buildings. These individuals have charge of keeping the records, of maintaining student-faculty relations, and of supervising teachers assigned to the respective units. Unit supervisors act as coordinators of each of the three small schools within a school.

Division of responsibilities into units provides an opportunity for the students to have a closer contact with the administration of the school.

Secretaries keep schedule running smoothly

EVELYNE BROWN
Central Unit

EVELYN SORENSON
West Unit
LAURA STUCKEY
East Unit

Fairmont West's extensive curriculum and activities require efficient secretaries to lighten the load of administration and faculty. Students find secretaries courteous and helpful in finding answers to their many questions.

Main office secretaries, Mrs. Charlotte Robinson and Mrs. Betty Goetcheus, aid Principal Mr. Alfred Bolender and Mr. Paul Wagner. Mrs. Jean Thomas, bookkeeper, sees that all financial records are accurate. These three capable individuals help make the task of running a large school operate more smoothly.

Unit secretaries: Mrs. Laura Stuckey, East; Mrs. Evelyn Brown, Central; and Mrs. Evelyn Sorenson, West; maintain records on each of the students in her unit. Some of the daily jobs of unit secretaries include announcements, directions, duplicated material, scholarship sign-ups, summer school information, tardy blanks, and transcripts.

Fairmont West's six office secretaries offer valuable services to both the administration and the student body. All recognize their well-trained efficiency and appreciate their courteous assistance.

Mary Ann Kowaski discusses college and scholarship plans with Mrs. Mary Carr, East Unit guidance counselor.

guidance services aid student development

Guidance services assist individual student to make the most of his own abilities and opportunities while in school. Each unit at West has two counselors ready to help each member of the student body.

Selection of courses and program planning are important decisions for each student. Counselors advise concerning these choices.

In sophomore and junior years, group instruction helps to prepare the student to select a vocational field, be a better student, choose a school or college more wisely, and achieve greater personal satisfaction.

Bulletins and catalogues may be borrowed to aid student and his parents in selecting schools and colleges. Information about job applications, college admission, and scholarships is one of the many services provided by West's well-trained counselors.

Standardized tests for mental ability, aptitudes, interests, and achievement play an important part in the guidance program.

This is the first year for an individual assistance class at Fairmont West. Mr. Thomas Neal instructs these students helping each to learn and to advance.

THOMAS NEAL — Rio Grande College, B.S.; Miami Univ.; Xavier Univ.—Individual Assistance. Hobby: Golf.

Westonians gain valuable knowledge and

Considering the hectic pace of today's complicated world, sound communications among people of all nations become increasingly important. Fairmont West's English Department places special emphasis on developing the ability to communicate in each of its students.

Mrs. Ruth Evans, English Coordinator, stresses the importance of learning to speak and write clearly and intelligently. Through the use of new English books which contain valuable sections covering correct language usage and punctuation and constant practice in composition, these skills become more valuable and applicable to daily use.

Establishing good reading habits is also an essential part of the well-rounded English program. Each grade level has a list of suggested reading materials. By exploring some of the possibilities on the lists, students develop tastes in various areas of literature. In class, teachers not only aid students in being critical of what they read, but also show them how they, too, can write creatively.

Sophomore Debbie McMillan finds the facilities of the library ideal, when doing research for an English theme.

Mrs. Ruth Evans, English Coordinator, shows Laurie Irvin and Sue Butcke some of the new materials needed each year to keep the curriculum interesting and up-to-date.

motivation through communication studies

Doug Hinkley, Martin Holsinger, Ken Clark and Sandy Smith find English literature an exciting challenge to seniors.

Fame of Fairmont's forensics is constant

Mr. George Tarzinski and Nancy Music agree that learning better English is definitely an enjoyable experience.

West's outstanding speech department is, once again, establishing high standards of performance. Under the direction of Miss Leah Funk and Mr. Joseph Kuldau, speech and debate are carrying on West's excellent reputation for superior forensics in a tri-state area.

Throughout the year, members of the two speech organizations, the National Forensic League and Thespians, are called upon to perform for various school functions. Jezebel, written by Miss Funk and given as the senior class play, will long be remembered at West as one of its finest productions.

Speech and debate teams travel to various high schools to compete. Team members are students who express a desire and talent to compete. In Junior English classes which combine English fundamentals and speech or debate, students learn to apply the principles of speech and debate to everyday situations. To qualify for these classes, a student must have maintained a B average or better in English during his sophomore year.

DAVID SMITH—Miami Univ., B.F.A.; State Univ. of Iowa, M.F.A.; Univ. of Dayton—English. Hobbies: Painting, History, Architecture.

source of pride

Miss Leah Funck's debate class listens to tapes of award-winning debates which help them improve techniques.

Miss Merrill Davis listens attentively as one of her Latin students, Janet Kempfer, asks about an assignment.

Miss Mary Belle Warren shares her travel experiences with her French students as she exhibits fondue forks which she obtained while teaching in Switzerland.

Language study increases

Steve Barr appreciates the individual attention given to him by his Latin teacher, Mrs. Joan Burns.

knowledge of foreign cultures and customs

Foreign language study increases understanding of both our own language and culture as well as that of foreign countries. Further fields of study open for those who have knowledge of another language other than English.

Courses in French, German, Latin, and Spanish are available to every student at West. Language laboratory facilities aid student to develop correct pronunciation. Skits, songs, and displays help students to better understand and enjoy the life of people in foreign nations.

Many Fairmont students participate in the Foreign Language Study Tour during the summer months. Students gain practical application of their knowledge of language as they visit foreign countries.

Today's world situation makes necessary communication with peoples of foreign countries. Different cultures create different ideas and a knowledge of these cultures enables us to understand foreign actions and decisions which may affect our own way of life.

Films and other visual aids aid Mr. Lee Risley and his students, Bob Hager and Tom Bollenbacher, to better understand the culture and the language of the German people.

Social studies — Westonians' key to success

Mr. Robert Janes makes the adventurous days of yore come alive through his fascinating world history classes.

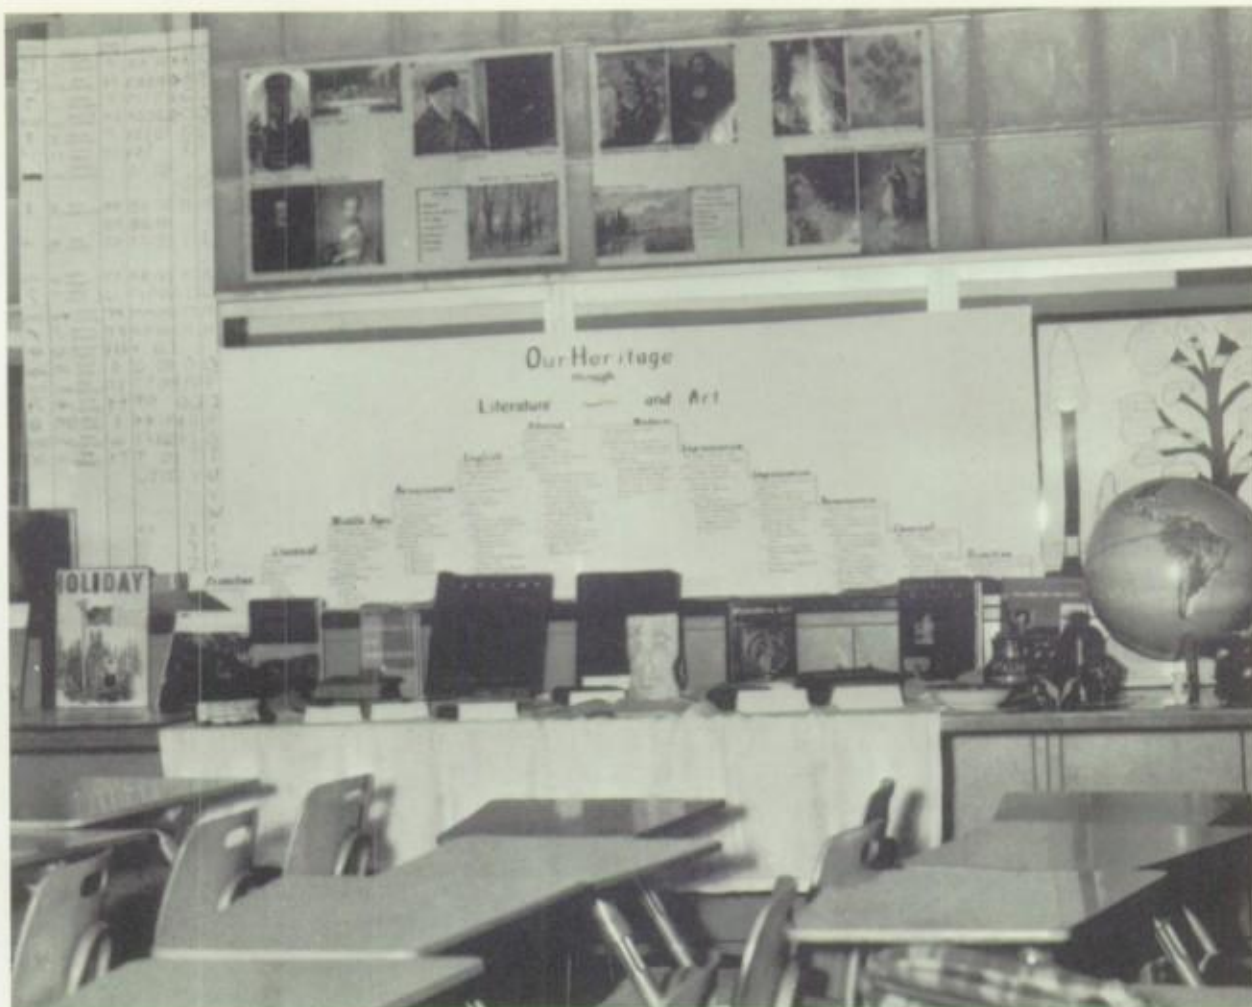

World events are becoming increasingly more important in the life of each individual as his world grows smaller and smaller. As the leaders of the generation of tomorrow, Westonians need to combine a firm knowledge of the happenings of the past with a clear perception of current events. World peace can only be accomplished when the people of the world learn to use the mistakes of former times to avoid blunders in the future.

To achieve better relations with one's neighbors he must know something of their various environments. World geography not only teaches the areas and resources of each country, but also the effects of these factors upon the importance of each country in world events.

It is essential that each American take great pride in his country. American history makes each junior aware of his heritage and of the pains and innumerable problems which had to be overcome to make this country as great as it is today by tracing its history from its simple beginnings in 1492 through the courageous fights for freedom for all men, to the present space program and political occurrences students gain insight into past heritage.

Civics, sociology, and economics aid students in growing into the title "American."

Mr. Hugh Brown's Culture Fair displays evidence of contributions of nations of the past to literary and social achievements of world of today.

exceptional talent

Fairmont West offers its students the finest facilities available for art and music. West's well-rounded program offers innumerable opportunities for both personal and community enrichment. Art classes in East and West units provide students with opportunities for gaining knowledge of various art forms. This knowledge aids in forming a more interesting personality for each individual.

Music occupies a great amount of time in the curricular and extra-curricular activities at West. Overwhelming numbers of students participate in the mixed chorus, girls' chorus, band, orchestra and Rhythmettes. West's outstanding musical productions, such as Damn Yankees (given in April to a capacity crowd), concerts featuring guest artists such as Joy Clements (soloist with the Metropolitan Opera) and various other superior programs help to develop an invaluable appreciation of fine music in each of its students.

Besides promoting culture through art and music, West encourages the selection of excellent reading materials by maintaining one of the finest libraries in the state. Reference books, which cover all areas of research, as well as periodicals, documentaries, and an outstanding selection of books for hours of reading pleasure, help to fill the many well-supplied and up-to-date sections.

Personal attention to student math problems

Geometry teacher Mr. Joseph Reed, devotes his time to individual instruction.

West's three-track math program offers something for everyone. This math department provides courses ranging from elementary arithmetic to college-level calculus.

For a fast-track student, the program begins in the eighth grade, where enriched algebra I is available. Enriched algebra II and enriched geometry follow. In his junior year, the student takes algebra III and trigonometry, and then advanced math IV.

Most students start their math studies in the ninth grade with algebra I; algebra II, geometry, and a solid geometry-trigonometry course follows. For the first time, there are also courses in business or industrial math for those interested; students who will need more practical math find that the general math course fits their needs.

Headed by Mr. Alvin Funderburg, the math department continues to offer an interesting program of studies.

Mr. George Tuttle points out humor in math to Sandy Peed.

Teachers improve West's science program

Fairmont West's science program has expanded this year, and now, for the first time, it includes a college-level physics course, in which students pursue projects on their own to further explore areas which interest them. These students are the products of a generally strong science program, with course offerings in all areas of the scientific spectrum.

For the beginner, there is biology I; students whose interests lie in this area may take chemistry and then biology II. Students whose talents lie in the field of physics may take two years of that subject, including the college-level course. On Saturday mornings, a seminar is available to chemistry students. In this age of specialization, West has not forgotten those who wish a broad and general knowledge of the sciences; two courses in general science are offered.

In all of these varied classes, the emphasis is placed upon laboratory work. This develops student's confidence in themselves and thus enables them to work well in the complicated courses which they will follow in their college years.

Senior John Walker and Mr. J. L. Baker investigate some of the many properties of radioactivity with the aid of the school's much-used Geiger-Müller counter.

Mr. Robert Kritzer's physical education classes emphasize the importance of physical fitness in the world of today.

Health courses offer instruction to students in the organization of learning experiences, directed toward the development of favorable health knowledge, attitudes, and practices. Subjects covered include habits and personality, emotions, and a unit of first aid.

Physical education classes improve physical fitness and develop proficiency in activities that promote health and teach skills and knowledge in the various forms of recreation. Boys are taught the fundamentals of basketball, archery, badminton, golf, handball, soccer and speedball, gymnastics and tumbling, softball, tennis, touch-football, track and field, volleyball, wrestling, and social dance. Included in the girls' program are archery, basketball, badminton, fencing, field hockey, golf, softball, tennis, gymnastics, table tennis, volleyball, and social dance.

Industrial arts encourages students to explore

Mr. Hans Holztrager instructs Ron Fisher in proper use of Sun Testing Equipment.

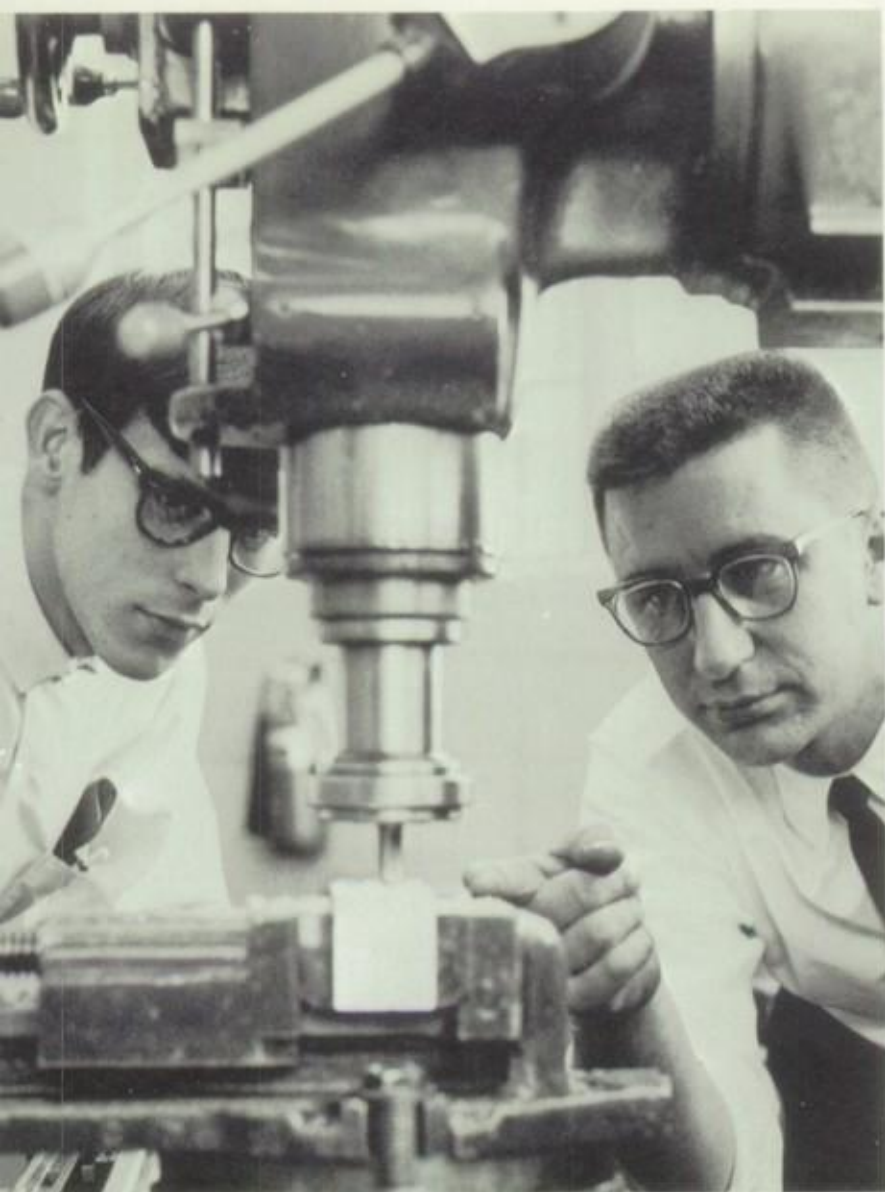

Industrial arts encourages students to explore various branches of industry by taking courses in two or more industrial arts subject areas before selecting one in which to specialize.

Variety of subject areas include industrial crafts, drafting, metals, machine shop, power mechanics, woodworking, electronics, graphic arts, industrial math, and stage craft. Each subject area provides extensive training to develop individual talents to the fullest degree.

Outstanding student projects receive special recognition through area contests and show case displays. Industrial arts experience enables student to obtain a good part-time job while furthering his education and offers valuable opportunities to go directly upon graduation to full-time employment.

Modern methods and tools create efficient working atmosphere. Fairmont West's industrial arts department receives state recognition for its outstanding facilities.

Background and skills institute homemaking

Practicing efficient methods of entertaining, Sandy Brickey and Jackie Dunn appreciate helpful suggestions from Miss Helen Vogelsang, head of home economics department.

Home economics provides study of basic background for homemaking techniques and clinical practice to enable each student to develop individual talents.

During beginning years in home economics department, future homemakers obtain broad working knowledge of food and nutrition and gain experience with elements of sewing and interior decorating.

Finer techniques of food preparation and entertaining, clothing construction and tailoring make-up more advanced home economic study.

In child development classes, practical application of child psychology results from visits to Kettering kindergartens and from instruction of Red Cross nurse who presents course in Mother and Baby Care.

Home management training teaches student how to make home comfortable and happy.

Home economics department offers broad range of courses and instruction in order to offer each individual adequate opportunity to specialize in chosen field.

Business problems have more meaning as Mr. William Powell and Bruce Rahn experiment with overhead projector.

business study acknowledges current trends

Standards of commercial education at Fairmont West acknowledge the demands of today's world of business. Modern techniques and advanced business machines enable students to succeed in the highly competitive atmosphere of this, his chosen field. Courses of varying depth satisfy the needs of both business and college preparatory student.

Business students gain valuable knowledge in such realms as bookkeeping, business English, business law, business math, consumer economics, notehand, office practice, shorthand, and typing.

Cooperative office education allows qualified seniors to gain on-the-job experience in area offices. Participants in this program attend school in the morning and go to their respective places of work in the afternoon.

Knowledge and skills gained by Fairmont West's business students receive recognition and appreciation from business employers. Future business leaders develop out of this extensive program of commercial education.

to the daily welfare of West student body

Frugal students find good, wholesome food costs little at West.

One reason why Fairmont West is such a well-run school is that the staff is large and experienced. Custodians, under Mr. Carl A. Hofferberth, keep the school's facilities clean and handsome; Mrs. Geneva Evans and the cafeteria staff provide inexpensive, wholesome food; the bus drivers conduct students to and from school in safety. These people, seldom seen by students, do much to make West best.

West's SENIOR year is the culmination of three years of high school
It is truly a year of mixed emotion
At the beginning of the year
SENIORS are elated with the idea of being the "big wheels" of West's campus and with the prospect of the long-awaited graduation so near Packed with such fun-filled events as homecoming tryouts for the Operetta and the class play and the presentation of many scholastic awards including National Merit Scholarship and letters of commendation
the SENIOR year is one of fulfillment
However, toward the end of the year the SENIOR realizes that graduation also means leaving all his friends and the situation to which he has become accustomed
He must soon acclimate himself to new circumstances and surroundings
It is then that the words
Fairmont West have the most significance for the SENIOR knows his opportunity to participate in high school life is quickly drawing to a close

During the JUNIOR year
West's student experience a period of transition
JUNIORS enjoy the unique satisfaction of being the class in-between
From the sophomore year
these student have acquired poise and maturity
but they have not yet gained the confidence required of a senior JUNIORS become more college-minded as evidenced by their visits to various universities and their attendance at college conferences
When they are JUNIORS
these students first learn the thrill of trying out for the Junior Class Play of being on the varsity teams and of presenting the prom in honor of the seniors
JUNIORS also take numerous tests which prove that they are growing up mentally, physically, and socially
To the JUNIOR
Fairmont West
is more than a means of education—
it is an integral way of life

To the SOPHOMORE finding himself at Fairmont West is like waking up in a new world
There are so many new experiences awaiting the SOPHOMORE that his apprehensiveness of his first year in high school is soon forgotten
SOPHOMORES enjoy such firsts as the excitement of the first game even if it means being only a spectator or sitting on the bench and the opportunity to belong to various organizations SOPHOMORES discover the delight that comes from campaigning for class officers and student council members planning for the class dance and selecting the long-awaited class rings
In addition to participating in these diverse activities
SOPHOMORES make new acquaintances
many of whom will last a life-time
Their first year in high school also requires that certain adjustments be made but such adjustments and the challenge of so many activities
add to the growing maturity of each individual

Fairmont West students boast the support of one of the state's largest business areas. This highly industrialized district South of Dayton contributes whole-heartedly to the support and success of the Dragon. In the yearbook staff's recent advertising campaign, 221 loyal members of the community contributed a total of $7050 toward the financing of the 1966 Dragon. To these individuals, the students of Fairmont West owe their thanks for making possible such special features as 22 color pictures, an outstanding cover with metallique design, and a 312 page comprehensive record of the school year. Without the support of these loyal business firms, the Dragon staff would not be able to purchase the "extras" that it is able to present to the 1575 families living in the Kettering community. These businesses deserve the reciprocity of the families of the Fairmont West district. Through cooperation on the part of both the business and the families in the Kettering area, continued progress may be assured not only in future yearbooks but also in the business enterprises.

Note of Thanks

Fairmont West's 1966 Dragon staff would like to take this opportunity to thank the many people whose help has proven invaluable to the production of the Dragon. Sincerest thanks go to Mrs. Jane E. Nolan, Fairmont West's yearbook adviser, without whose expert help the annual would not be possible; Mr. and Mrs. Hal Logan of Logan Studios who are responsible for the beautiful senior portraits; Mr. Bill Maerker, also of Logan Studios who photographed seniors, as well as took the organizations and informal activity shots; Ken Logan, who spent many after-school hours taking advertising pictures; Mr. Jack Molz of Delmar Studios for the underclass pictures; and Mr. Matt McCormick and Mr. Terry Hirtzinger of the Taylor Publishing Company.

In addition to the technical aid of those mentioned above, the yearbook is grateful to the administration and faculty of Fairmont West; as well as the central administrators of the Kettering School System; Mr. Carl Hofferberth and Mr. Paul Day, who assisted on shipment nights; Mr. Leland Hall; the many advertisers who invested $7000 in the Dragon; and the numerous parents, business, and professional patrons; all of whom had a role in the creation of this yearbook.

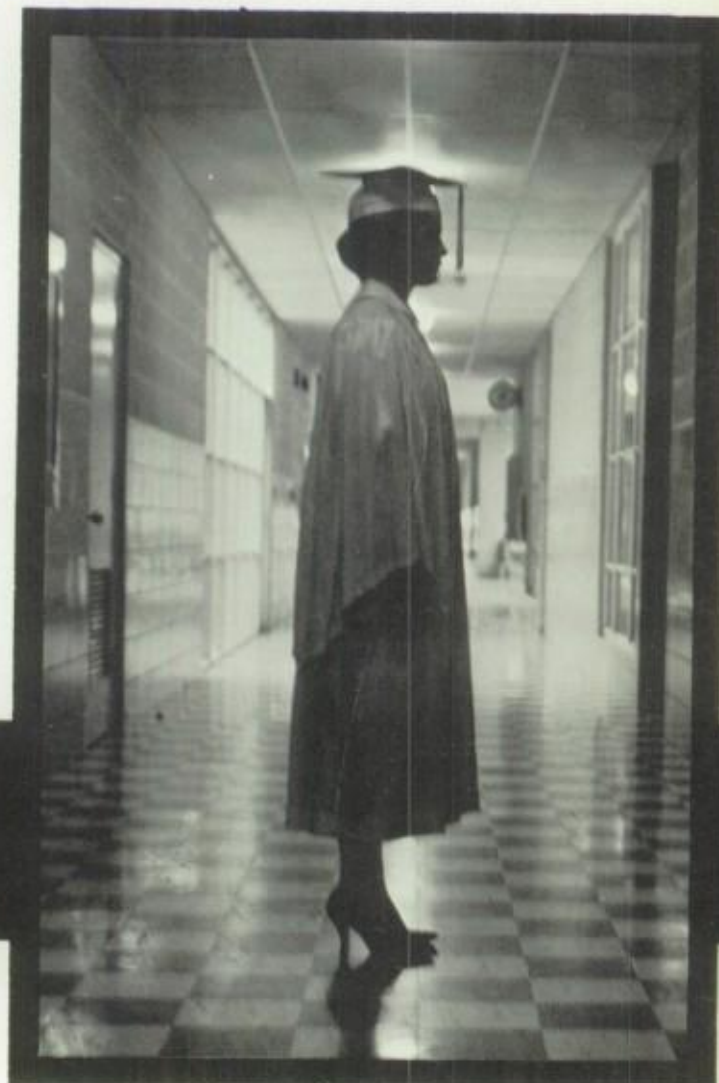

Most of all, the staff thanks the members of the student body for their support of the Dragon, and for caring enough about Fairmont West to want a pictorial remembrance of their high school days.

Through the mist of happiness and the fog of regret Fairmont West students look back upon the memories brought to them by the 1965-1966 school year
 In the sinking sun light are reflections of warmth and joy of the most memorable events of the passing year Crowning a Homecoming Queen and naming a court success of a sound victory over East in football perfect performances by the band and Rhythmette Corps bustle and confusion in the halls between classes meeting friends at lockers or enjoying a few spare minutes alone in the unit lobby decorating for the senior dance rehearsing for "Jezebel" or "The Bad Seed," making final preparations for the musical, "Damn Yankees," cross-country, wrestling, gymnastic and golf meets, making plans for the prom—for the seniors, their last—110% spirit in school during basketball tournament play, hysteria of a frantic crowd's winning a game by one point,
 the tranquility of the night air after the game, broken by the sound of an exhausted bus load of Dragons uniting their voices in the Alma Mater—these are the sounds of '66.
 Not all remembrances are pleasant, not all are inspiring;
 yet all have become additions to the growing register of invaluable experiences and accomplishments—marking the past and present for every senior as he spends his last days on West's campus.
 As each senior anticipates his future,
 so does he reminisce the routine way of life to which he has become accustomed, "The West Way."
 With his final day drawing nearer, the tension increases.
 Now each graduating senior leaves West's pride a little dimmer until new seniors step forward.
 With each senior goes a part of Fairmont West from each senior West gains indelible imprints in all areas.
 Finally, the silhouette of a senior, seen through a tear remains the lone speck of light in the halls of Fairmont West.
